Greek who took Cypriot presidency steps down

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Greek Cypriot who took over the Cyprus presidency from the ousted Archbishop Makarios resigned today and a prominent figure in the old regime was named to replace him, Cyprus radio said. The move was seen as an attempt to reach a peace accord with Turkey.

The British reported a new outbreak of fighting on Turkey's invasion beachhead in northern Cyprus near Kyrenia despite a cease-fire agreement accepted by all sides.

Shortly before these developments, Turkey's deputy prime minister, Necmettin Erbakan, renewed an old Turkish demand for partition of the Mediterranean island between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

Named to take over the Cypriot presidency was Glafocs Clerides, who was speaker of the House of Representatives before Makarios was overthrown July 15 in a coup by the national guard under the leadership of regular Greek army officers.

The Cyprus radio broadcast said Clerides already had been sworn into office.

Clerides, a lawyer, headed intercommunal talks with the Turks under Makarios.

Nikos Sampson, who took over from Makarios after the national guard seized power and precipitated Turkey's invasion last Saturday, said in an address over the Cyprus radio that Clerides, because of his experience, is better equipped to lead the nation.

Sampson added that he was stepping down with a clear conscience. He maintained that his actions since the coup had been motivated by a desire to avoid civil war between the Turkish and Greek communities which share the island 45 miles from Turkey in the Mediterranean.

The fighting report came from the British Defense Ministry which said in London that the battle action was taking place as a Royal Navy task force was evacuating stranded Britons and other foreigners from the northern coast. The ministry said the evacuation of about 2,500 foreigners was continuing without too much difficulty because the fighting was about six miles from the evacuation point.

The Defense Ministry said it had no details of the battle action.

The United Nations in New York said troops of its peace force on Cyprus took over the airport at Nicosia, the Cypriot capital, because of new fighting there. A U.N. headquarters spokesman said no details of the Nicosia fighting were available to him but that he described it as "a new and serious breach of the ceasefire."

The cease-fire had been called for 10 a. m., EDT, Monday but fighting continued for several hours after that deadline. Then about six hours later, the U.N. command on Cyprus reported all quiet on the island and that the cease-fire appeared to be holding.

Earlier today, Associated Press correspondent Frank N. Hawkins Jr. reported from Nicosia that sporadic fighting broke out along the so-called Green Line separating the Greek and Turkish communities but that in general the cease-fire had been honored by both sides.

The dispatch was filed before the British and U.N. reports of new action.

U.S. officials have said they expect fighting to continue between the Greek and Turkish communities for at least several more days.

The Greeks outnumber the Turks on the island by about 4 to 1.

The national guard leadership which overthrew Makarios demanded complete union with Greece—or enosis—which the archbishop opposed.

Erbakan's statement did not make clear whether he was speaking for the entire Turkish government or whether partition would be a major demand of Turkey at a meeting in Geneva this week or possibly next among Britan, Turkey and Greece, which are empowered by a 1960 treaty to guarantee Cyprus as an independent democratic republic.

Casualties apparently were heavy on the island but with the confusion and communications breakdowns there was no way to obtain any exact figures.

The confusion and communications troubles could be a factor in firming up the ceasefire with any rapidity, particularly between the Turkish and Greek communities.

Premier Bulent Ecevit said that if Turkish forces or the Turkish Cypriots were attacked, "we will shoot back."

The U.N. announcement of the takeover of the Nicosia airport said the "airport thus has become a U.N. international protected area. This will at the same time faciliate the arrival of reinforcements."

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim was empowered by the U.N. Security Council on Monday to bolster the U.N. force on Cyprus. A spokesman said later he wanted to double the 2,300man force.

A U.N. spokesman said today the first reinforcements are expected to be British and Finnish.

The U.N. has had a force on the island for 10 years.

One American, Yvonne Bachelis of Pacific Palisades, Calif., said the fighting on the island was a terrifying experience.

Ambulance unit to suggest tax

BLOOMFIELD — The board of trustees of the Stoddard County Ambluance District voted Monday night to recommend to the County Court that a tax levy of 10 cents per $100 valuation be set to support the ambulance district. This figure was based upon findings of a committee consisting of David Cummings of Advance, Wesley Cowan of Essex and Bill Poeppelmeyer of Bloomfield.

The board voted to proceed with plans worked out by a committee composed of Jack Smarr of Dexter, Ray Coats of Bernie and John Roach of Puxico to determine ambulance service fees.

The base fee will be $30 for ambulance service within Stoddard County. Fees for persons taken from Stoddard County to out- of- county hospitals will be set up on a flat rate, according to the area of the county in which the patient lives.

The county will be divided into four special districts, and the fee will be based upon which district the patient resides in and which out- of - county hospital he desires.

A sample fee chart was worked out for persons living in the Puxico area. The fee from Puxico to Chaffee or Sikeston would be $45; from Puxico to Cape Girardeau,

Carpet contract not awarded

BENTON — The Scott County Court reported today that when it accepted a $24,084 bid from Chaffee Building Co. for the remodeling and refurnishing of the Circuit Courtroom in the county courthouse that it did not award the carpeting contract to L.F. Wheeler of Miner.

It was reported in Friday's edition of The Daily Standard that a condition of the bid being awarded to Chaffee Building Co. was that Wheeler receive the carpeting contract.

Presiding Judge Les Lankford said the carpeting bid was going to be a separate bid from Chaffee Building Co.

"The court has not accepted any bids on the carpeting as yet, but we will be accepting them soon," Lankford said.

Lankford also said the court had been pleased with work Wheeler had done in the past and would consider his bid along with other bids received.

Nursing home to be expanded

MALDEN — A 60-bed expansion project to double the capacity of Ridgeview Manor Nursing Home in Malden has been approved by the Missouri Office of Comprehensive Health Planning, according to Moody Summitt, director of the Bootheel Comprehensive Health Council. The nursing home, presently a 60- bed facility, is privately owned.

Medical capital expenditures for the proposal has been set at $550,300, Summitt said.

City will not make up deficit

Acting City Manager Bill Whitlock said today the City of Sikeston will not help make up any deficit in the operating costs of ambulance service in the area.

The deficits will be made up by the County Courts of Scott and New Madrid counties.

An article in Monday's edition of The Daily Standard said deficits would be made up on a pro- rata basis by the counties and Sikeston. But Whitlock said today that Sikeston will not be asked to help eliminate any deficits.

Accident injures 5 persons

Five persons were injured — one seriously — at 12:50 p.m. Monday on an unmarked asphalt road four miles east of the Grant City community when a car, left, driven east by Betsy Hampton, 38, of Bloomfield, attempted to make a left turn and was struck by a westbound car, right, driven by Jim Harris, 47, of Benton Route One. The injured persons were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Bootheel temperatures dropped by cold front

The sweltering temperatures that gripped Southeast Missouri during the weekend have been cooled by a cold front stationed over the Bootheel, according to Dennis Slaughter, a meteorologist at the United States Weather Service Station in Cairo, Ill.

Malden reported the monthly high in the area Friday with a temperature of 104 degrees. Other high temperatures recorded Friday were 102 in Poplar Bluff and Sikeston; 101 degrees in East Prairie; 100 degrees in Portageville and 99 degrees in Charleston and Kennett. The mercury climbed to 100 degrees for the first time this year a day earlier in Malden, Poplar Bluff and East Prairie.

Most of the high temperatures during the weekend were about 20 degrees higher than July's monthly average air temperature, according to the weather recorder at the University of Missouri Delta Research Center in Portageville.

One or two "hot spells" can be expected every summer, Slaughter said. "The dryness in the area contributed to the high temperatures, he said.

Effects of the hot dry weather are being felt throughout the area. Tasseling corn can be damaged by temperatures above 113 degrees. "The soil can easily reach that with the hot weather we've been having," John Young, area farm management specialist at the University of Missouri Extension Center in Benton said Monday.

Breezy winds are drying moisture from the soil and irrigation systems, but most crops are doing well, he said.

Farmers with livestock may have noticed depressed weight gains during the hot weather, according to Dave Kelly, livestock specialist in Portageville. When the animals are exposed to high temperatures for more than 24 hours, severe gaining inefficiency may result, he said. Kelly suggests that livestock producers provide temporary shade and mists of water to cool the animals at least once during the day.

Paul Rice, a manager at the Missouri Utilities office in Cape Girardeau said company -wide electrical demand has increased six and one- half per cent since May.

Residents asked to cut water use during dry spell

Dry weather has sent the demand for water soaring and Sikeston Light and Water Co. officials today asked residents to curtail their use of water.

The demand for water has placed a heavy burden on the city's filtration plant, according to Dick Inman, director of municipal utilities.

Inman said the city is using water from its storage facilities, but the demand is so great it is unable to pump enough water back into the storage tanks to keep them filled.

"We have added an additional crew at nights in order to keep up with the demand by operating the plant on a manual basis," Inman said. "This still did not alleviate the 'catch up' situation that we were faced with. The supply of water from our wells is more than adequate but the limitations of our filtering plant will just not keep up with the demand."

Inman asked residents not to water their lawns and to conserve water whenever possible.

He said if there was a large fire in the city, the fire department might have trouble getting enough water.

During the first 22 days of July the city used an average of $3,040,000 gallons of water, with a peak demand when the temperature reached 102 degrees last Friday of $4,101,000 gallons.

In comparison, during the first 22 days of July 1971, the average water usage was only 2,499,774 gallons with a peak demand of 3,108,000 gallons. Last year the city used 2,655,709 gallons, with a peak uses of 3,023,000 gallons.

Only four times from 1971 through 1973 did the city reach the three- million gallon mark, according to Dick Lucy, superintendent of the city sewer and water plants. The first 22 days of this month, the city averaged above the three - million mark, he said.

The city is renovating the old filtering plant, but because of material delivery schedules, work will not be completed until late August. The old plant was closed in 1964. With the renovation the city will add 750,000 gallons to its capacity.

However, Inman said, the renovation will not solve the water problem for the city.

The city is growing so fast, a new plant is needed, he said. Voters will be asked to approve a bond issue in the fall for the construction of a new facility to be completed early next summer.

Madrid man named recorder of deeds

NEW MADRID — Ben H. Ashley, 46, of New Madrid has been appointed recorder of deeds for New Madrid County, succeeding Linus E. Young of Portageville, whose resignation was filed with Gov. Christopher Bond effective July 16.

Young accepted a position with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare as an attorney- examiner of the Bureau of Hearings and Appeals of Washington, D. C. He will be stationed in St. Louis to handle appeals of decisions made at local offices.

Young was elected recorder of New Madrid County at the general election in 1970 and had filed as a candidate for re-election.

Ashley has been in the abstract business for years. He presently heads the Security Abstract Company.

He will complete Young's term, which expires Dec. 31.

Ashley will be the first Republican county official in New Madrid County for the past 30 years.

The last Republican county official was placed in office due to the death of the late Circuit Clerk T. A. Lee. E. M. Radcliffe was appointed circuit clerk by Gov. Forrest C. Donnell, on Nov. 15, 1944.

Mrs. Doris Hampton and Miss Ann Evans Copeland, who were deputy recorders under Young, have been reappointed.

PUBLIC BLAMED FOR INFLATION

Herbert Stein, Chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, in a television interview has said that the public is responsible for inflation. He places the blame on the fact that for the past decade the public has fought increases taxes.

We agree that the public is basically responsible for inflation. We also point out that Congress and the Executive Branch of the government have aided and abetted the American public in its excessive demands for services at the lowest tax rates.

By and large the American public seems blind to the fact that the government doesn't make any money. It just operates by spending the taxes levied on the citizens.

Still, we continue to demand better highways, better police protection, more welfare, space travel, better sanitation facilities, clean air, clean water, etc., etc., etc. In fact we want the best of everything we can get from the government at a low, low tax rate.

The result is that candidates for elected offices promise to vote for many of these things if elected, and those who get elected work hard to give them to the public so they can stay in their jobs. They also know that the public does not want higher taxes and so the elected official tries to keep them down.

Common sense tells us that we can't keep running a government that keeps increasing the public debt by spending more than it collects in taxes.

It is time that we realize that there is a limit to the demands we can put on our government, and it is time that Congress and the Executive Branch cut back on their spending.

We support Chairman Stein's proposal that the government adopt a policy of strict governmental spending limits, a balanced budget and no tax deductions. Otherwise, this country is going broke with a bigger bang than it has ever experienced.

APPEAL TO GOVERNOR

We commend State Treasurer James I. Spainhower for calling on Governor Christopher S. Bond to withdraw all gubernatorial appointments to state boards and commissions made to replace persons whose terms had not expired and who had not resigned.

Spainhower said bluntly the governor has made an imprudent grab for complete control of each of the state's fourteen reorganized divisions of government.

The State Treasurer said it appears Governor Bond has interpreted the language of the reorganization bill in such a way as to permit him to make wholesale changes in the personnel of the state's various boards and commissions.

Spainhower said the governor's legal right to do this is a matter for possible judicial determination, but he believed that the action, whether or not technically legal, "is in clear violation of a long and firmly established principle." He explained that there is a clearly established constitutional, statutory and public call for staggered appointments to prevent undue influence by one man or woman over the commissions and boards which control the operations of state agencies and departments.

Treasurer Spainhower was particularly concerned for the effect of Governor Bond's appointments on the departments of Conservation, Highways and Education, since Missouri has a long history of keeping these departments free from partisan control. He said that concept should be protected and not circumvented by reorganization.

Senate President Pro Tem William J. Cason yesterday expressed great concern about the governor's actions, taken during transfer of state agencies to new departments as a part of state organization.

Senator Cason indicated an investigation was underway.

He also pointed out that the Missouri Senate still had its right of confirmation of some of the personnel involved. However, he also pointed out that new appointees take office upon appointment and that would give the governor six months of untrammeled power.

We regret that Governor Bond has created a storm in which to launch state reorganization ordered by the people of Missouri in the hopes of achieving better government.

We feel the purpose of reorganization may yet be achieved -- but not by tampering with our time-proved commission system.

THE GOD OF NATURE

Part of the reason for a nostalgic desire to return to yesterday is an imaginary conception of what yesterday was like. Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz, in discussing the place of chemicals in food production, struck a realistic note that should help bring the dreamers back to Earth. He said, "It would be absolutely impossible to feed 207 million Americans, even on a subsistence level, without a substantial input of chemicals, of pesticides, of antibiotics. Food today is more healthful. We've banished the scab from the potato, we've taken the parasite out of the pig, we've taken the worm from the apple. The basic problem with us in America, I think -- and one of the reasons we get so much drive for organic agriculture -- is that two thirds of Americans are so young that they never had the experience of biting into a wormy apple and looking at the worm hole and wondering 'Is he still in there, or did I get him?' Those people think that the god of nature automatically made nice, red, juicy, plump, nutritious apples. As a matter of fact, the god of nature put the worm in the apple and man took him out."

What is true of the apple is true of many other phases of life where man has removed the traps that the god of nature has placed in his way.

WHICH WILL IT BE?

Stunning is the only word that can adequately describe the rising demands for energy that confront many of the nation's investor - owned electric companies. The vice president in charge of sales and marketing for a major Eastern electric company says, "In the next decade, 75 per cent of our growth in demand will come from our existing 800,000 customers." In other words, a doubling of energy requirements expected to take place in the '70's for this one company is mostly accounted for by the additional uses which present customers, mostly residential users, are expected to make of electric energy.

Another official of the company, in explaning the expected rise in energy use over the next decade, observed that, "Only 35 to 50 per cent of our customers have an air conditioner." He predicts this percentage will rise well above 50 per cent during the decade. He also observed that new developments will be all electric and that electricity will begin taking over functions now performed by other types of energy or not performed at all. Many environmentalists favor expanded use of electricity because, in the Federal Power Commission's words, "... it is easier ... to control pollution at a large central power station than at a multiplicity of small furnaces or other energy converters ..."

The company's plans for meeting the inexorable rise in demand for electric power in one of the most heavily populated regions of the United States hinge on the assumption that there will be no more delays in the building of vital nuclear facilities. Whether that assumption is correct rests, in this case and in others like it all over the country, upon the wisdom of environmentalists, the public and countless regulatory agencies -- all of whom must choose between crippling obstructionism and reliance on technology and the resourcefulness of the energy industry which is the foundation of today's civilization.

FACTS MUST BE FACED

A leading petroleum geologist, Dr. Wilson Laird, stresses that "even more than Alaska, the area that appears to hold the greatest promise for supply our projected increasing petroleum needs is the submerged portion of this continent." He expressed belief that opponents of marine exploration and drilling for oil are "... playing heavily on fear and playing down the facts." He enumerates facts that are beyond dispute.

Some 16.4 per cent of our domestic crude oil production and 14.7 per cent of our domestic gas production currently comes from marine areas. This means that, on the average, about one - and- three-quarter million barrels of oil are produced daily from marine wells -- with minimal pollution impact. He reports that "... some 14,000 wells have been drilled in the marine environment to date, and only two of them produced spills that resulted in serious pollution. None-- repeat, none-- resulted in permanent environmental damage ..." Another point made by Dr. Laird is that along the Atlantic seaboard, for example, where offshore drilling is a highly controversial subject, oil producing operations would range far beyond the sight of land -- 30 to 200 miles off the coast. He further pointed out that experience in the Gulf of Mexico has demonstrated that fishing and production of oil are not imcompatible. In truth, drilling platforms actually attract fish.

The public must face facts such as those presented by Dr. Laird, and the oil industry must be encouraged to pursue the development of the nation's oil resources as rapidly as practicable within the framework of honest environmental and energy requirements.

VICTORY FOR PROPERTY RIGHTS

Constructive Congressmen won an important legislative victory when the House of Representatives defeated Rep. Morris Udall's federal land-use bill. The Udall bill threatened the rights of every land-owning citizen.

The bill would have imposed land- use "guidelines" on states receiving federal grants. The "guidelines" were so broad that they would have affected private citizens as well as the government entities receiving the grants. The guidelines were supported by radical environmentalists and left- siders, but had gained support elsewhere because of propaganda describing the bill as necessary for the protection of the environment. Instead, the bill in effect would have given non- elected federal bureaucrats a large amount of control over private property use.

Earlier this year, observers believed that the bill would easily pass, but constructive Congressmen, led by Rep. Sam Steiger of Arizona, organized their opposition effectively. Business organizations such as the U.S. Chamber of Commerce worked hard. Construction unions joined in making a united business- labor front. These defenders of private property rights worked tirelessly to inform lawmakers of the evils of the bill and won.

The experience with the Udall bill shows that strong and united efforts on behalf of good causes can succeed against heavy odds. It also shows that the right of a property owner to dispose of his own land as he chooses, so long as he does not infringe on the rights of others, is still respected, as well it must be if a society is to remain free. NO MORE GAMBLE

WASHINGTON — Safeway Stores has just announced a new pricing policy. It says it will only stamp one price on a box or can of food and will not change the price while it's on the shelves.

While some people consider this a breakthrough in supermarket shopping, there are others who feel this will take the thrill out of grocery buying.

My friend Milton Wallach was highly critical of the Safeway proposal. "The thing I liked about going to a supermarket is that it was like going to a casino in Las Vegas. The big gamble was to get out of the store before they changed the price on you. You only had a half- hour to do it and the excitement for me was running down the aisles pushing my cart, with a stockboy chasing after me trying to stamp my goods with a new price before I got to the checkout counter."

Wallach, who has spent a lot of time in supermarkets, said that in recent months there have been so many prices on food packages you could hardly read the labels.

"I would go into the store and ask the clerk, 'Where are the baked beans you advertised for 40 cents?' He would reply, 'Oh those must be the ones we raised to 55 cents this morning. They were marked down from 62 cents, 57 cents and 45 cents last week. You better get them right away because I think they're going up to 70 cents in 10 minutes.' "

In his observation Wallach discovered that in every supermarket the manager makes his own decision on what to charge for an item. "I was in one store and I saw a box of crackers with 65 cents stamped on them.

"The manager happened to walk by and saw one of his clerks perspiring. 'Is it hot out?' he asked the boy.

" 'It's 92 degrees,' the clerk replied.

"So the manager took out a rubber stamp and marked 92 cents on the crackers.

"At another store the manager kept a racing form at the counter. I had a package of meat in my basket marked $2.80. He stamped it $4.50 and I asked him why. 'That's what the winner in the 5th race at Aqueduct paid yesterday.' "

Every store, says Wallach, has a different method of raising prices. "Some send their stockboys down the aisles every 15 minutes stamping everything they can see. Others have their stampers waiting at key points and as soon as you pass they start stamping everything in you basket. A few get carried away. In one store I was wearing white shoes and one of the lads had stamped $2.50, $4.50 and $6.50 on them. I complained to the manager who apologized and gave me a free can of white shoe clearer which was marked 67 cents, 89 cents and $1.50."

Occasionally Wallach says there is a slip-up and he'll find a package that doesn't have a price on it at all. "Last week I was in a supermarket and I found a box of blueberries that some price stamper had missed. I asked the man at the counter how much it was. He didn't know and sent me to the manager. The manager called up his broker and said, 'How much is IBM selling for today?' The broker told him 212, and so the manager stamped $2.12 cents on the box."

Wallach feels Safeway's new one- price policy will discourage people from going to the supermarket. "Buying food is the biggest numbers game in the country," he said. "The average American still gets his kicks from trying to guess what a can of tuna is going to cost him. If you can buy a can of tomato paste 15 minutes before the price goes up on it, your day is made. You may win some and you may lose some, but at least you had fun playing the game.

"If Safeway takes the gamble out of grocery buying, many of its customers may decide the ell with it and go back into the stock market again."

Meany Golfs Again: White House to put Anti- Inflation Show on the road across nation

WASHINGTON — They're playing client golf again at the Burning Tree country club. But it's difficult to tell who's whose client. Labor chief George Meany, who has been clobbering Dick Nixon and warning Federal Reserve chairman Arthur Burns to keep "his cotton- pickin' hands" off the economy, was on the links one recent Sunday morning with the President's newest economic counselor, Ken Rush.

Acting as broker and ideological caddy was former Treasury Secretary George Shultz, one of the few chaps with whom Meany is on speaking terms. The game plan was to let Meany win, soften him up and get him to resume diplomatic relations with the White House. Then Meany could tell his millions of followers to restrain themselves on wage demands.

Well, even if Meany, a self-made curmudgeon, was willing to yield, which isn't likely, he'd have to use his niblick to club his labor associates and the uncontrollable rank and file. Meany, who also has just played golf at Burning Tree with some of his own construction labor officials, can't even keep them in line, though in their powerful circles lies his greatest influence.

For example, though the building and construction trades unions -- with some 3.5 million members -- have been having a pay day hey- day, their new national chief, 41- year- old Bob Georgine, has apparently set off a new inflation wave by telling his people they need more money for "catch up."

This is one of the most significant developments in the whole inflation "thing." Big chunks of the economy are hooked to the gargantuan $138 billion (a year) construction field. So it sets the pace.

And despite their complaints, the construction workers average cash wage rate ran close to $8 an hour until April 1. Before overtime. Now add an average of $1.32 an hour for holiday pay, Health coverage, welfare, pensions, etc.

All this is much higher now -- by about 10 per cent. So construction workers now earn an average of $10 an hour. This is an average, mind you. There are far higher wages. And the score card will show that the construction trades have kept ahead of the demon Cost of Living (Consumer Price) Index. Still they talk about catch up.

Yes, some of them in spotty sections are jobless. But lots more will be. The White House will crack down in some fashion if wages and costs continute to rocket.

"We have weapons," says one informed presidential adviser. "They (the construction local unions) have gone crazy. What good will increases do them? Sure they can get $5 an hour more. But they will price themselves out of the market. The White House froze considerable construction work in 1970 by executive order. The government costs were running too high. So construction money was impounded. And remember, the government is the nation's biggest customer in many a field, especially construction."

There is increasing clamor for action. Some congressional and federal leaders are beginning to table- thump ever louder and soon the outcry will come from non- unionized workers. It's not generally recognized that construction is intricately hooked to our daily lives. Many public employes -- the laborers, for example -- don't really bargain with their municipalities or states. They wait until the construction labor rates are set in the private sector. Then they "classify" in.

Thus the new famous 160 San Francisco street cleaners "earn" $17,059 a year -- based on laborers private - sector rates. This pushes up local and state taxes -- on income, sales and real estate (rents).

Certainly the cost of living has left millions of other workers behind. But that doesn't seem to impress the construction workers' elite rank and file who harass their leaders as well as the public.

Just what the President can do about all this isn't certain. Arthur Burns, for example, wants the Cost of Living Council and its controls revived.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield has called for wage-price controls. Congressman Wilbur Mills has called for impounding of at least $10 billion of federal spending. And he's chairman of the all-powerful House Ways and Means Committee.

Officially the administration is preparing for regional labor- management conferences. Perhaps that is what they discussed with Meany on the links. Ken Rush also has talked with the Teamsters president Frank Fitzsimmons. He, of course, is backing up the President. Meany disdains administration statements as "baloney" one can't eat. But there will be regional "consultative" conferences. White House objective is to "open up" in Chicago July 26 with a conference starring Vice President Jerry Ford.

So, actually, there is no visible action. But says one who helped write Dick Nixon's latest speech, "We are really on the way, three steps forward and two steps back."

He added that "the preliminary figures show the sharp cut of the first quarter has been blunted. I have divided our world in three groups -- one, the financial community, which always is in chaos; two, the consumer community, which is stiffening, and three, the producers who once could sell anything and now discover they can't ... Ken Rush is a great believer in communications and negotiations. Could work. But it will take years."

He said we have to get stability without fireworks. And we're on our way there -- if we can keep the wage- prive front from exploding again. Maybe those golf clubs could do some good after all.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Divided Loyalties Weaken Greek Armed Forces

WASHINGTON — Behind the Greek military posturing in the Mediterranean, confidential NATO documents warn that the Greek armed forces are so divided and weak they couldn't whip the Turkish army in a badminton match.

A May, 1974, draft report to the North Atlantic Assembly declares bluntly: "The effect upon the (Greek) armed forces of almost seven years of dictatorship, accompanied by periodic upheavals and a succession of savage purges, has been severely to distort their command structure and to create an atmosphere of suspicion and antagonism among factions of the officer corps with differing political views and sharply divided loyalties."

Nevertheless, the Nixon Administration has insisted upon backing the Greek junta. As late as June 26, Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger testified before the Senate that "as far as the military side of the alliance is concerned, Greece remains an effective member."

This is disputed by confidential NATO information, which is available to Schlesinger. States one document: "There are growing doubts about the extent to which the Greek armed forces as a whole, disunited as they are and dissipated by police and supervisory functions, are capable of playing their part in the NATO defense strategy."

From other classified documents and confidential sources, we have gleaned the following intelligence items about the explosive situation in the Mediterranean:

-- The Nixon Administration, in the language of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, is "tilting" toward the Greek officers who overthrew Archbishop Makarios in Cyprus. Kissinger realizes this is an unpopular position among State Department bureaucrats and European allies. Indeed, he has already started leaking stories about how agonized he is by the necessity to support military dictators. But he sees the new junta leader, Nikos Sampson, as preferable to Makarios.

-- The ruthless Sampson, formerly a guerrilla assassin, has been receiving secret CIA financial support for years. Our CIA sources say this is merely the intelligence agency's standard hedge of supporting both sides in a dispute. But Sampson, now a rich newspaperman, received money to support his publishing empire through Savyas Konstantopoulos, publisher of the Athens Free World. Konstantopoulos, say our sources, has long been on the CIA payroll.

-- For that matter, Archbishop Makarios also collected CIA cash. Extremely reliable sources told us that Makarios simply blackmailed the CIA. If the agency wanted to keep its extensive facilities on Cyprus, Makarios allegedly told them, they had to pay for the privilege.

President Nixon and Secretary Kissinger appear to be the last holdouts in the free world in their support of the Greek and Cyprus juntas. According to one confidential NATO document, our European allies have been eager "to hasten the transfer of power from unsophisticated and parochial military men ... to a political government enjoying the confidence of the people."

-- Sources who have been reliable in the past say even the CIA has given up on the Greek junta and is secretly pulling its main facilities out of Greece. The CIA reportedly is transferring many important functions from Athens to Teheran, in the apparent belief that the Shah of Iran is a safer bet than the Greek military dictatorship.

HAYS HOLLERS: The terrible- tempered Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, has tried to kick muckraker Ralph Nader's reporters out of public hearings. "You're nothing but a crummy thieving bunch of liars," roared Hays at a Nader reporter after a recent hearing. "If I'd known you were in there, I would have thrown you out." The Nader news bureau's stories about Hays have so infuriated him that he asked two subscribing papers to cancel the service, he told us. From here on, he'll try to bar them from the press tables.

INDISCREET MEMO: Housing Undersecretary Floyd Hyde recently picked up his papers and left the government to join McManis Associates consulting firm. Not long afterward, his subcabinet colleague, Transportation Undersecretary John Barnum, sent a memo to his underlings suggesting that they keep Hyde in mind "in case you have any problems for consultants that he might be able to help you with." In bureaucratic Washington, this is practically an order to hire Hyde's firm. Cautioned about the impropriety, Barnum hurried off a second letter nine days later saying he feared the first one "may be misconstrued," thus, in effect, withdrawing it.

SEX APPEALS: The brass hats at Ft. Hood, Tex., recently advertised for "go-go dancers" to perform in its 12 clubs for officers and noncoms. A spokesman assured us that the bikini- clad girls are paid from club profits. Not to be outdone, Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Mass., placed an ad for a belly dancing instructor. "It's for a physical education class for women," said a spokesman. "There's quite a bit of physical fitness required for the fine art of belly dancing."

The bride wore a formal gown of sata peau, with bands of Venise lace accented with pearls around the high collar, cuffs, bishop sleeves and along the edges of the attached train. The lace and pearls also extended down the front of the dress. The gown featured a tie jabot on the bodice and was complimented by a finger tip veil framed and held by a Venise lace motif frame. The bride carried a cascade of roses, daisies, ivy and stephanotis.

Mrs. Linda Murray of Ava, Mo., served her sister as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Edith Boehle of Lawrence, sister of the bride, and Genny Zeigler of St. Charles, Mo.

Ann Landers

Tickling boyfriend goes too far

Dear Ann Landers: Please settle our first fight. Bud and I have been dating for four months and I really love him. The problem is that lately he has become a tickling maniac. At first I thought it was funny, but now he's driving me crazy.

Last night he actually tied my hands and held me in a chair while his best frined took off my shoes and hose and tickled the bottom of my feet with a feather for what seemed like an eternity.

When they finally untied me I used some language I didn't know was part of my vocabulary. They were shocked -- and so was I.

Now Bud is mad at me and says I made a big scene over nothing. I claim that what he did was not normal. He says I'm the one who is loony.

It took me months to get this guy to notice me and ask me out. This first fight is killing me. What do you make of it? -- Still Rattled

Dear Still Rattled: Your "dreamboat" has a streak of sadism an inch thick and a yard wide. To tickle for fun, for a few seconds, is O.K. But to tie a girl's hands and invite a buddy in as part of the act is pretty sick stuff and you'd better recognize it now before the dingbat graduates to whips and chains.

Dear Ann Landers: I am having an argument with a friend and when I tell you what my question is you will know why I have to write to you. No way could I go to anyone else.

Is it possible for a human being to get pregnant by an animal? All I need is a yes or a no. I will take your word for it. -- No Name No City Please

Dear N.N.N.C: The answer is NO. And you can take my word for it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a registered nurse who has worked in some of the finest hospitals in town for several years. Due to some personal problems I went to pieces and had to spend a few weeks in a mental institution. The diagnosis was "depression."

Recently I applied to the hospital (in which I was a patient) for a part- time job. I was able to supply excellent references and a very impressive work record. One of the questions on the application form was, "Have you ever received psyciaatric treatment for an emotional breakdown?" Of course I answered honestly.

I did not get the job and I later learned that no one even bothered to check with the people whose names I gave as references.

There is no question in my mind as to why I wasn't hired. It was because of my "psychiatric history."

From now on if I ever see that question on an application form again, I will not answer truthfully. What a shame to put such a stigma on one who has had help with an emotional problem. And how dreadful to make liars out of people. Will you comment please? -- Smarter Now

Dear Smarter: I believe that question should be declared illegal on all job application forms. Actually it does not weed out the unstable or incompetents. It serves no useful purpose whatever.

I consider individuals who have had psychiatric therapy or professional counseling "extra special." It is evidence that the person recognized he had a problem he couldn't handle alone and was willing to do something about it.

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers's booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." For a copy, mail 35 cent in coin and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P. O. box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654.

Rev. and Mrs. Henry Smith Sr.

Smiths observe 50th anniversary

CLINE'S ISLAND—Castor River General Baptist Church, located near Cline's Island, was the scene of the surprise golden wedding anniversary and reception for the Rev. and Mrs. Henry Smith Sr. of Sikeston Route One.

The couple exchanged and renewed their wedding vows July 5 in a 7 p.m. ceremony. The couple was married July 11, 1924 in Van Buren County, Ark.

The Rev. Fee Jones of Sikeston, a longtime friend of the family, conducted the single-ring ceremony in the church chancel amid an arrangement of split-leaf philodendrums, blue and white daisies, carnations and other flowers centered around the large church family Bible.

The bride and groom were surprised at the church by memebers of their family from Iowa and California and approximately 200 other friends and acquaintances from the surrounding area. Members of the church assisted the family in church decoration, planning and serving.

The church was decorated with floral arrangements of blue and white daisies and accented by curtains of streamers in identical colors. The aisle of the church became a promenade of golden colors of anniversary streamers that hung from ceiling to floor.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her husband of 50 years while the pianist, Mr. Ricki McClure of Bloomfield, played the "Wedding March".

As the couple entered, the bride was presented a floral arrangement of arrogated red and white carnations which she carried down the aisle.

The couple was preceded by candlelighters, Miss Lisa McGarrity and Miss Karen Wyman of Essex; the maid-of-honor, Mrs. Robert (Chigger) Lang of Essex; the bridesmaid, Miss Sandi Wyman of Bloomfield; the flower girl, Miss Angie Vandiver of Bloomfield; and the ring bearer Donald Ritch of Gray Ridge. Best man was the Rev. Smith's son, Henry (Buck) Smith of Sikeston, and the groomsman was Robert Land of Essex.

Mrs. Nola Kleffer attended the guestbook, and Mike Lane of Essex sang, "Let Me Be Your Sweetheart" and "The Wedding Prayers."

The couple exchanged vows and then surprised those in attendance by singing, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," to show their appreciation to the church.

A reception followed at the church where the couple cut the blue and white three-tiered wedding cake. Serving the cake and punch were Mrs. Edward McGarrity, Mrs. Carl (Lenore) Smith, Mrs. Etta Wyman and Mrs. Marceda Wyman all of Essex.

Scouts plan events for bicentennial

Girl Scouts in the Cotton Boll Council headquarted in Sikeston, are now making plans to observe the United States' bicentennial.

During the 1974-75 school year,the scouts plan to center their observances around the theme "Heritage '76". Badge projects have been established for each level of scouting, and badges will be designed by the bicentennial committee on an Our Own Troop blank badge.

Scouts in each neighborhood will be asked to identify and honor "Hidden Heroines" in their area. These should be women who have made some significant contribution to family and community and perhaps have never received any recognition.

Old music, pioneer crafts, and historical sights will also be identified in each area.

Scouts are especially planning to consider older citizens in their town and perhaps tape conversation with them as they reminisce. It is hoped that a booklet can be compiled with information about each area in the Cotton Boll Council.

During the 1975-76 school year, the theme will be "Festival U.S.A.". The Cotton Boll Council will host a national wider opportunity in August 1975, with 100 girl scouts from all over the nation participating. The booklet compiled during the 1974-75 school year will be given to each participant so that she can be informed about Southeast Missouri.

"Horizons '76" is the theme chosen for the 1976-77 school year and plans are under consideration for some type of council trip, such as a birthday party, with the opportunity for each girl in the council to participate.

Mrs. Marvin Barbour of Poplar Bluff is chairman of bicentennial plans and is urging every neighborhood Girl Scout chairman to recruit and recommend to her committee someone in each neighborhood who can help with compiling a list of historical buildings, sights and cemeteries.

Skirt lengths vary

PARIS (AP) — These days it's rather difficult to get all hot and bothered about fashion. Women wear what they want, and if you don't like it, you can just look in another direction.

There is one issue, nonetheless, which still can evoke heated debate among those who care about clothes. You may choose to dress Chinese, Mexican, Japanese, Russian or like a Swiss mountaineer. But what you really want to know is: what length do I wear my skirt?

In the collections for all and winter that the Paris houses begin showing Monday, the mid-calf skirt is back, once again.

It was around in the 1930's, came back in 1947 with the New Look, flopped miserably circa 1970, and now the couture houses are giving the length what may well be its last chance.

If women refuse to wear it now, the long skirt will probably go the way of the whalebone corset. Straight to the attic.

The feeling for next winter is big, loose, soft and long. Everything drops, swings, flops and balloons. Huge coats with big armholes and shoulders dropping to mid-bicep go over easy shirtdresses and skirts that flare with lots of gathers at the waist.

The waist, incidentally, is always marked and sometimes severely so, with a wide belt. The silk blouse has a tie collar.

The midcalf skirt should be worn with boots. No leg should show. That's exactly how it was worn four years ago, and it's still a good idea for cold weather. No one, but no one should be wearing pants any more.

For evening, skirts have shortened. The ankle is the correct length for soft dresses in crepe, satin and chiffon. Think of it as the spirit of contradiction or the quest for new forms, but designers simply can't resist shortening and lengthening skirts.

Lessons for Young Bicyclists to Learn

Chief Leon R. Culp
Sikeston Police Department

Lesson No. 12 - Coasting and Racing on Bikes

In the year 1839 the first bicycle was invented by a man named Kirkpatrick Macmillan of Scotland. Of course, this first model was much different than the bicycles of today. Bicycling soon became very popular, mainly among adults, but it was destined to become a very handy method of transportation among youngsters also.

I think it is important to devote a full lesson to coasting and racing because most young peoople like to coast and race frequently on their bikes. It seems whenever a youngster gets a new bike the first thing he wants to know is how fast can he go on it and how far will it coast.

Racing on bikes is great sport, if it is done in the proper place at the right time. The fastest speed on record ever achieved on a bike was 127.243 miles per hour, and this record is held by Jose Meiffret, a Frenchman, It was set in July 1962.

The greatest distance ever covered in one hour, on a bicycle, was 76 miles, 604 yards. This record was set in France 1928 by Leon Vanderstuyft, a Belgian.

Bicycling has been on the Olympics program since 1896, and it holds the interest of fans down through the years. Needless to say, it is a healthy and worthwhile sport.

Whetner you plan to be a professional bicylist or just like to race for the fun of it, there are certain definite rules you must follow. The first rule is....you NEVER race on your bike on a public street or highway. When you are racing you do not have the control of your bike that you would normally have when riding for other reasons. Also, you might take dangerous chances in order to beat the person you are racing with. The professional bike racers don't practice on streets and highways. They practice off the streets because they know it is not safe for themselves and others to race on public throughfares.

Coasting down long hills is something everyone likes to do too. But, remember, when you get to the bottom of the hill, you don't want to be traveling so fast that you cannot stop in case a car comes out of a side street, or someone walks across the street in front of you. Coasting allows you to reach speeds on your bike that are not safe. If you were to have an accident, due to coasting too fast, it would do no good to say afterward, "I'm sorry, I was going so fast I couldn't stop."

So, the rule is: if you wish to race with friends, find a place to race where you will be off the public streets at all times. No part of the race route should be on a street, road or highway! And, allow your bike to coast only for short distances and be sure you are in control of it at all times, when you are riding on public streets.

QUESTION	YES	NO
It is o.k. to coast down long hills fast. If you can't stop at the bottom, other people will have to get out of your way.	___	___
Do professional bike racers practice racing on public highways?	___	___
Racing with friends on streets or highways is fun, but it is too dangerous.	___	___

Good places to hold a bike race would be, empty lots, private roads, race tracks, playgrounds (where permitted.)

Real Estate

REALTOR

PRICING YOUR HOUSE RIGHT

The value of your house is not what you think it is — or what the buyer thinks. It is determined chiefly by the location, the neighborhood, and the current market. An overpriced house sitting on the market for months becomes almost impossible to sell. So first, you must get in line with the market. That means a realistic appraisal.

Nobody - but nobody - is more acutely aware of the current housing market than your local Realtor. A capable Realtor can bring his own appraisal expert or even a team of salesmen who will individually price your home and then reach a fair concensus. Or you can hire a qualified independent appraiser. You may be pleasantly surprised to find out that you were intending to price your house for less than its fair market value.

If possible, your price should include curtains, draperies, refrigerator, air-conditioners, dishwasher, built-ins. It's a better package deal and may hasten the sale.

(Editor's Note: Mr. Mitchell is Past President of the Sikeston Board of Realtors and is currently serving as Vice- President of the Missouri Association of Realtors.)

Rosenberg spy case now in book

PORTAGEVILLE — A new book at the New Madrid County Library in Portageville is "The Implosion Conspiracy", by Louis Nizer.

Called a "legendary attorney" by Newsweek, Nizer has depicted the greatest spy story of the century -- the true account of the Rosenberg espionage case, brilliantly set forth in both its human and its legal aspects.

Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, her brother David Greenglass, Morton Sobel and others were charged with passing along to Soviet Russia the secrets of the device that triggers the atom bomb.

The trial that resulted will go down in history as one of the major courtroom dramas of all time.

The emotional content of the story is at times almost overwhelming: the love story of Ethel and Julius that endured through waves of hope and despair, and was expressed in love letters between them while in the death house; the betrayal of Ethel by her beloved younger brother David, whose testimony sent her to the chair.

The heartbreaking visits to Sing Sing by the Rosenbergs' 4 and 8- year-old sons; the heroism of their attorney, Emanuel Block, who gave his life for his clients in a losing cause; the mounting frenzy of worldwide protest at the death; the touching appeal of Ethel Rosenberg to President Eisenhower -- and finally, the horror of the execution chamber.

114 Vets in Camp

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Football League owners are sweetening the pot for the 114 veterans who have crossed picket lines and reported to training camp.

The NFL Management Council, bargaining agency for the owners in the labor dispute with the NFL Players Association, ordered a salary increase Monday night for all players, including rookies and free agents, who are in training.

The action came after negotiations had moved back to point zero with no date set for future contract bargaining.

Federal Mediator James Scearce said Monday the negotiations had collapsed and that he did not intend to call another meeting until "there is reason to believe that the talks will result in progress."

In New York, Wellington Mara, chairman of the NFLMC executive committee, announced that it was immediately "authorizing the 26 clubs to implement the improved pay schedule to all players now in training camps."

This means that each rookie will now get $200 a week while in camp, rather than a daily pay of $15.65. And the veterans who defied the union will get an additional 10 per cent of their salary, up to $10,000 for the training season.

Earlier in the day, Scearce conducted a brief bargaining session to which the players union sent seven representatives but the management sent only attorney Sargent Karch.

"There are no proposals," said Karch as he walked down the hall after remaining in the room only a few minutes. "I'll be back when there are proposals the players association wishes to give us."

Then Scearce announced that he did not plan to call any more meetings at the present time.

NFLMC representatives said Sunday, after 2½ days of negotiations which ended with the owners walking out, that they would not attend any more meetings until the union made new proposals.

At a news conference here Monday afternoon, Bill Curry, union president, and Ed Garvey, the executive director, accused the owners of refusing to negotiate in an attempt to break the union, which they said would not happen.

Among their demands, the players want elimination of the reserve and option clauses.

The owners have said acceptance of the players 63 demands, including the 13 socalled freedom demands, would lead to anarchy. They say they are willing to talk modification but not abolishment of NFL rules and regulations.

Mara, owner of the New York Giants, said earlier it now is likely the NFL will play the exhibition season with rookies, free agents and the veterans who reported to training camp.

Under a ruling by the council, fans who have tickets for the Hall of Fame game in Canton, Ohio, Saturday and for the first week of preseason games Aug. 2-5, will be able to get a refund if they want it and apply for the money 48 hours before the game.

Entries sought

Entries are now being accepted for the Southeast Missouri Little League Championship tournament at Parma Aug. 11-18.

Portageville is the defending champions.

Anyone interested in entering should contact Ron Jaynes at 471-6980, 357-4535 or 357-4728. Entry deadline is July 31.

Help needed

Sikeston Little League, Jr. Babe Ruth and Sr. Babe Ruth managers are again urged to stop by The Daily Standard office to identify team photographs.

Runaways in AL

Pre-tournament favorites, Ryan Construction and Nunnelee, scored run-away wins in the opening night of American Little League tournament play Monday. Ryan claimed a 16-9 win and Nunnelee blanked Ziegenhorn 14-0.

Ryan connected for 20 hits in their four inning encounter and was led by the four for four performance of Green, who also scored four times.

Nunnelee rode a two hit pitching performance to their four inning triumph. Howard, Beesley and Howard had three hits each for Nunnelee.

Tournament play resumes this evening with second seeded Bridger facing seventh rated Righter at 6:30 and fourth ranked First National going against fifth seeded Fabick at 8:15.

WFL losers

By The Associated Press

Detroit has already taken a step this week ... a step backwards, that is. Now it's up to the New York Stars and Portland Storm to make sure they don't "catch" the Wheels.

Detroit became the first World Football League to lose three games when it bowed 36-16 to the Hawaiians Sunday night. The Stars and Storm are the only other winless WFL teams.

If the Stars manage to break their late-game bad-luck spell, a lot of people will see them do it. New York travels to Philadelphia to play the Bell in Thursday night's nationally televised game.

In Wednesday night's games, Portland hosts Chicago, Houston is at Florida, Southern California visits Jacksonville and Memphis is at Birmingham.

Stars second

Sikeston took second place last Monday night in the 13- year- old Jr. Babe Ruth district tournament in Charleston after edging Illmo- Scott City 5-4 and falling to Tri- County as they downed Sikeston 8-6.

Cox's power house hit in the seventh drove in the two winning wins by Lee and Launius, giving Sikeston the lead by one. Lambert cracked two- base hits in the first inning of play and Beaudean got a double in the third.

Wasson won the pitching duel against Wadlington.

Tri- County moved to first place when they defeated Sikeston in the second game. They will compete in state action next week in Carthage.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh last hosted the All-Star Game in 1959, and then Vice President Richard M. Nixon watched from the stands as the National League won 5-4.

He was given a loud ovation before the game at old Forbes Field, and he responded with a broad smile and outflung and upraised arms.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Broadcaster Joe Garagiola on Oakland A's slugger Reggie Jackson: "The thing I like about him is that he doesn't treat baseball like it's High Mass."

Garagiola on his old 1952 Pirate team, which finished with a .273 winning percentage: "We had such men as Forrest Main, Clem Keshorek, the O'Brien twins and a fellow who played fiddle ... We lost 112 games on merit that year."

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Even the sports writers and radio broadcasters had to pay to see the 1944 All-Star Game in Pittsburgh. Proceeds went to the purchase of baseball equipment for military bases.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—All-Star Lou Brock has 56 stolen bases and he's 22 games ahead of Maury Wills' 1962 pace when he swiped a record 104.

"Lou is the youngest 35-year-old I've ever seen," says Wills, who'll be in the broadcasting booth for the All-Star clash.

Brock's tribute to Wills: "He's the Godfather of the Basepaths."

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Brooks Robinson of the American League Baltimore Orioles holds one dubious All-Star record. He's played in 14 losing All-Star games.

Diebold's standout

VANDUSER — Benton scored a pair of wins behind top pitching performances to remain alive in the Women's invitational fast pitch softball tournament here Monday night.

Cindy Diebold hurled to a 18-5 win over Advance and used the powerful bat of Marty Hubbert who connected for four hits, three of which were triples.

Val Diebold pitched and hit Benton to a 11-1 win over Bloomfield in the nightcap, only two days after booking here second no-hitter of the tournament. Val collected three hits, two of which were doubles.

Benton faces undefeated New Hamburg at 7:15 this evening in hopes of keeping their winning ways alive and forcing 8:45 battle for the title. A loss will give New Hamburg the championship.

SPORTS

BOSTON (AP) — A Somerville, Mass., cab driver has defeated the pocket billiards world champion, winning the first annual Copley Silver Bowl and $500 cash.

Lawrence "Boston Shorty" Johnson bested champion Steve Mizerak of Perth Amboy, N.J., 125-45 in the match played before a black tie audience at a hotel Monday night.

Mizerak will defend his crown in Chicago Aug. 5.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The National Weather Service isn't giving any odds on the outcome of tonight's All-Star baseball game, but it is giving a 4-1 chance for favorable weather.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "I might throw one in on old Hank to make him feel at home," said Gaylord Perry, the American League's starting All-Star pitcher. The suggestion was that Perry, self-described as a reformed spitball pitcher, might toss a wet one to Henry Aaron for old time's sake.

"I didn't say I'd do it," Perry added with a grin. "I said I'm thinking about it."

World news

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirteen previously unpublished memos obtained by the House Judiciary Committee in its impeachment inquiry demonstrate the extent of power which former White House Chief of Staff H.R. Haldeman exercised over the Nixon re-election bid. In part, the memos dealt with Herbert Kalmbach's troubles with political donors who wanted to be ambassadors and claims that Bebe Rebozo was collecting campaign money. In response, Haldeman frequently would jot down campaign opinions and decisions.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon rejected suggestions from his staff that he destroy any White House tapes that might prove politically and historically embarrassing, the Cox Newspapers Washington Bureau reported today. The story quoted a July 25, 1973, memorandum to the President from speechwriter Patrick J. Buchanan, who questioned the sense of keeping the recordings of White House conversations.

DHS principal prepares for school year

DEXTER — Gene McCane, newly employed principal, has moved into his facilities at Dexter High School and is busy preparing for the opening of the school year next month.

McCane, who was secured for the position after former principal John DeArman handed in his resignation to take a post in Kansas City, comes to Dexter from the Twin Rivers School District, where he served for three years as counselor, junior high principal and high school principal, respectively.

Having formerly taught here, McCane is familiar with Dexter's school system. Referring to Dexter's school system as "the finest in the area," McCane appeared eager to begin in his new capacity. "The system is one to be admired and I'm proud to have been elected a part of its staff," he said.

The new principal instructed in social studies at Dexter during the 1969-70 and 1970-71 school years.

McCane, his wife Janice and sons Douglas, 8, and Gregory, 6, now live in Dexter. Mrs. McCane also formerly taught in Dexter Southwest Elementary School for four years.

He received his schooling at Ouachita Baptist University in Arkadelphia, Ark., where he obtained a bachelor's degree. He received further instruction at Henderson State Teachers College, also at Arkadelphia, where he earned a master's degree. He has since had further instruction at Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau.

Honorable Mayor and City Council
City of Sikeston
Sikeston, Missouri

Gentlemen:

We have examined the Statement of Assets and Liabilities of the General Fund of the City of Sikeston as of April 30, 1974, and the related Statement of Revenues and Expenditures for the year then ended. In connection therewith, we have reviewed the system of internal control and the accounting procedures of the city and, without making a detailed audit of the transactions, we have examined or tested accounting records of the city and other supporting evidence by methods and to the extent we deemed appropriate. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements present fairly the financial position of the City of Sikeston, at April 30, 1974, and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Respectfully submitted,
JAMES H. BUCHER

What's the law?

The case of the talkative partner

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Moe went on a business trip with his two partners and, after [illegible] that were tough, all he could think of was a bed that was soft. He was so tired, in fact, the moment his head hit the pillow he began talking in his sleep. And, what he had to say really got his two partners, who were sitting nearby, in a tizzy.

Specifically, Moe confessed to being the culprit who had been stealing large sums of money from the partnership over a two- year period.

Falling all over themselves to call the police, Moe's partners had Moe arrested on charges of larceny.

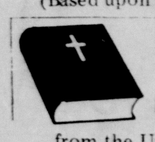
"He's a real chiseler," the complained in court. "He carved out a fortune with our money. And the two of heard it right from the horse's mouth."

"You can't believe what I said in my sleep," was Moe's defense. "In addition to having a big mouth, my subconscious is a terrible liar."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict talkative Moe off larceny?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a man is not conscious of what he says when he talks in his sleep. Words spoken by him in that condition, noted the judge, constitute no evidence of guilt.

(Based upon an 1861 California Supreme Court Decision)



Prayer for today

from the Upper Room

"I sought the Lord, and he heard me, and delivered me from all my fears." (Psalm 34:4)

PRAYER: O God of mercy, we come to Thee, praying that all people may have freedom from fear -- the freedom Christ gives. Help us all to fix our thoughts and affections upon Thee and not be afraid. In His name. Amen.

9 persons injured in area accidents

Seven persons were injured in two area traffic accidents Monday, and two other persons received injuries in a Sunday accident not reported until today by the highway patrol.

An accident at 12:50 p.m. Monday on an unmarked asphalt road four miles east of the Grant City community resulted in five injuries.

The accident happened when an eastbound car driven by Betsy Hampton, 38, of Bloomfield attempted to make a left turn and was struck by a westbound car driven by Jim Harris, 47, of Benton Route One.

Harris and a passenger, Hattie Grant, 45, of Sikeston, suffered minor injuries. Mrs. Hampton and a passenger, Dorothy Hampton, 12, also received minor injuries. Another passenger, Jimmy Hampton, 14, received serious injuries. All five were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Charlie Thomas Dobbs, 53, of Vanduser was injured at 2:15 p.m. Monday at the intersection of Routes W and CC three miles west of Oran when his car, traveling north on Route CC, skidded through a stop sign into the path of an eastbound pickup truck driven by Lee Burton, 45, of Oran.

Dobbs and his wife Mary, 47, suffered minor injuries and were taken to Chaffee General Hospital.

A Jackson teen-ager was serious injured at 6:30 p.m. Sunday on Benton Hill Road three miles south of Jackson when she lost control of her car when it hit loose gravel, ran off the road and overturned.

Julie Marie Clifton, 16, was taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau, along with a passenger, Sherry Crites, 16, of Cape Girardeau Route One, who received minor injuries.

Prairie man arrested for weekend break-in

CHARLESTON — Larry Dale Houston, 23, of East Prairie was charged Monday with a felony of breaking, entering and stealing, according to Deputy Sheriff Mike Baughman.

The charge against Houston, who was arrested Sunday by Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie, was filed in connection with a break-in at a house owned by Wendell Choate and located near the Choate Farms office in Dorena. The break-in occurred either Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

Items taken from the home included a microwave oven, a 12 gauge shotgun, a .22 caliber rifle with scope and sling, a 30 automatic rifle with scope and sling, an Am-FM stereo component system with three speakers, a pony saddle and a nickel-plated revolver.

Houston, who is free on $5,000 bond, will appear Thursday in Magistrate Court.

Court okays clean-out

BENTON — Dan Frissell, soil conservationist, and Ken Morgan, area engineer for the Soil Conservation Service, appeared before the Scott County Court Monday and announced that they are in the process of planning a clean-out project for a drainage ditch and two creeks in Scott County.

The $250,000 project, which will be submitted to the court Thursday, will be for cleaning out Hayden Ditch, located two miles west of Oran; Caney Creek, south of New Hamburg; and Ramsey Creek, located between Kelso and Scott City.

Presiding Judge Les Lankford said the County Court will sponsor the project.

The court also announced that it had named a temporary county port authority advisory committee to help determine the feasibility and method of obtaining a river port for Southeast Missouri.

Named to the committee were Ollie Amick of Illmo, Mike Pfefferkorn of Chaffee, Denny Wheeler of Scott City, Jimmy Law, Jimmy Brown and Frank Ferrell of Sikeston and C. B. Taylor of Morley.

A permanent committee will be named Aug. 3.

The court agreed to blacktop the road that goes through the Vester Phillips subdivision outside the city limits of Morley.

The landowners agreed to pay for the blacktopping.

He said electrical demand Friday was the highest peak of the year.

Area-wide demand for electricity has doubled since May, according to D. H. Zaricor, manager of the Scott - New Madrid - Mississippi Rural Electric Cooperative. Zaricor said the REA has not experienced any shortages, except when a few homes installed air conditioning without notifying the office first.

The city water supply may be most affected by the dry weather. Water demands have increased by 75 per cent since the first of July, according to Richard Lucy, superintendent of Sikeston's water and sewage plants. During the weekend heat wave, demand soared to as much as four million gallons per day, while the plant capacity is designed for about 2,900,000 gallons per day. Lucy said July's average demand has reached about 3,140,000 gallons per day.

"We are possibly getting a lesser quality water, but it is still above state requirements," Lucy said.

Residents will be asked to conserve water, Lucy and Dick Inman, director of municipal utilities, announced today.

With no rain forecast until Thursday, it may become even more difficult for people to keep their cool.

$60; to Memphis, Tenn., $130; to St. Louis, $135; to Mount Vernon, $227.50; and to Columbia, $235.

An additional $5 will be charged should the patient require oxygen. A similar plan will be worked out for each of the four districts.

The committee has not made a decision yet about fees to be charged a patient picked up outside Stoddard County. Since the state requires services to develop mutual aid and support agreements with surrounding services, it will sometimes be necessary to provide service in overlapping areas outside the county.

Chairman Smarr told the board that after further study, he now thinks it would be advantageous to the district to base its operations out of Dexter Memorial Hospital as originally planned. Even though the Stoddard County sheriff's department offers many good possibilities, he said he believes the hospital plan is the best one for the district to follow.

The telephone system for the service will consist of a toll free enterprise number for residents of Advance, Bernie and Puxico. Residents of Dexter, Bloomfield and Essex will call a designated number with the 624 exchange.

There will be two numbers to call, one for emergency service and one for business transactions. Should the emergency number be busy, the system will automatically switch to the business number, providing two emergency lines at all times. The cost of the system to the district will be $48.50 per month.

Coats told the board he has five firm commitments from volunteers who are willing to take the 81-hour training course. He said he will be able to secure others as soon as he has the information as to which night the class meets, where it will meet and whether the district will pay the fees and expenses prior to enrollment instead of at the end of the course.

Smarr assured Coats that class schedule information will be available at the Aug. 12 meeting. The board then decided to pay necessary fees and expenes to volunteers prior to beginning the course, if desired.

Cummins told the board "We are asking for volunteers. We must be prepared to lose some (due to dropouts). If we must pay the fees and expenses prior to enrollment. It's a chance we will have to take."

The board voted to check on an available Bloomfield location to serve as the district headquarters. The space will be used as an office and meeting place.

Greek who took Cypriot presidency steps down

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Greek Cypriot who took over the Cyprus presidency from the ousted Archbishop Makarios resigned today and a prominent figure in the old regime was named to replace him, Cyprus radio said. The move was seen as an attempt to reach a peace accord with Turkey.

The British reported a new outbreak of fighting on Turkey's invasion beachhead in northern Cyprus near Kyrenia despite a cease-fire agreement accepted by all sides.

Shortly before these developments, Turkey's deputy prime minister, Necmettin Erbakan, renewed an old Turkish demand for partition of the Mediterranean island between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

Named to take over the Cypriot presidency was Glafocs Clerides, who was speaker of the House of Representatives before Makarios was overthrown July 15 in a coup by the national guard under the leadership of regular Greek army officers.

The Cyprus radio broadcast said Clerides already had been sworn into office.

Clerides, a lawyer, headed intercommunal talks with the Turks under Makarios.

Nikos Sampson, who took over from Makarios after the national guard seized power and precipitated Turkey's invasion last Saturday, said in an address over the Cyprus radio that Clerides, because of his experience, is better equipped to lead the nation.

Sampson added that he was stepping down with a clear conscience. He maintained that his actions since the coup had been motivated by a desire to avoid civil war between the Turkish and Greek communities which share the island 45 miles from Turkey in the Mediterranean.

The fighting report came from the British Defense Ministry which said in London that the battle action was taking place as a Royal Navy task force was evacuating stranded Britons and other foreigners from the northern coast. The ministry said the evacuation of about 2,500 foreigners was continuing without too much difficulty because the fighting was about six miles from the evacuation point.

The Defense Ministry said it had no details of the battle action.

The United Nations in New York said troops of its peace force on Cyprus took over the airport at Nicosia, the Cypriot capital, because of new fighting there. A U.N. headquarters spokesman said no details of the Nicosia fighting were available to him but that he described it as "a new and serious breach of the ceasefire."

The cease-fire had been called for 10 a. m., EDT, Monday but fighting continued for several hours after that deadline. Then about six hours later, the U.N. command on Cyprus reported all quiet on the island and that the cease-fire appeared to be holding.

Earlier today, Associated Press correspondent Frank N. Hawkins Jr. reported from Nicosia that sporadic fighting broke out along the so-called Green Line separating the Greek and Turkish communities but that in general the cease-fire had been honored by both sides.

The dispatch was filed before the British and U.N. reports of new action.

U.S. officials have said they expect fighting to continue between the Greek and Turkish communities for at least several more days.

The Greeks outnumber the Turks on the island by about 4 to 1.

The national guard leadership which overthrew Makarios demanded complete union with Greece—or enosis—which the archbishop opposed.

Erbakan's statement did not make clear whether he was speaking for the entire Turkish government or whether partition would be a major demand of Turkey at a meeting in Geneva this week or possibly next among Britan, Turkey and Greece, which are empowered by a 1960 treaty to guarantee Cyprus as an independent democratic republic.

Casualties apparently were heavy on the island but with the confusion and communications breakdowns there was no way to obtain any exact figures.

The confusion and communications troubles could be a factor in firming up the ceasefire with any rapidity, particularly between the Turkish and Greek communities.

Premier Bulent Ecevit said that if Turkish forces or the Turkish Cypriots were attacked, "we will shoot back."

The U.N. announcement of the takeover of the Nicosia airport said the "airport thus has become a U.N. international protected area. This will at the same time faciliate the arrival of reinforcements."

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim was empowered by the U.N. Security Council on Monday to bolster the U.N. force on Cyprus. A spokesman said later he wanted to double the 2,300 man force.

A U.N. spokesman said today the first reinforcements are expected to be British and Finnish.

The U.N. has had a force on the island for 10 years.

One American, Yvonne Bachelis of Pacific Palisades, Calif., said the fighting on the island was a terrifying experience.

Ambulance unit to suggest tax

BLOOMFIELD — The board of trustees of the Stoddard County Ambluance District voted Monday night to recommend to the County Court that a tax levy of 10 cents per $100 valuation be set to support the ambulance district. This figure was based upon findings of a committee consisting of David Cummings of Advance, Wesley Cowan of Essex and Bill Poeppelmeyer of Bloomfield.

The board voted to proceed with plans worked out by a committee composed of Jack Smarr of Dexter, Ray Coats of Bernie and John Roach of Puxico to determine ambulance service fees.

The base fee will be $30 for ambulance service within Stoddard County. Fees for persons taken from Stoddard County to out- of- county hospitals will be set up on a flat rate, according to the area of the county in which the patient lives.

The county will be divided into four special districts, and the fee will be based upon which district the patient resides in and which out- of - county hospital he desires.

A sample fee chart was worked out for persons living in the Puxico area. The fee from Puxico to Chaffee or Sikeston would be $45; from Puxico to Cape Girardeau,

Carpet contract not awarded

BENTON — The Scott County Court reported today that when it accepted a $24,084 bid from Chaffee Building Co. for the remodeling and refurnishing of the Circuit Courtroom in the county courthouse that it did not award the carpeting contract to L.F. Wheeler of Miner.

It was reported in Friday's edition of The Daily Standard that a condition of the bid being awarded to Chaffee Building Co. was that Wheeler receive the carpeting contract.

Presiding Judge Les Lankford said the carpeting bid was going to be a separate bid from Chaffee Building Co.

"The court has not accepted any bids on the carpeting as yet, but we will be accepting them soon," Lankford said.

Lankford also said the court had been pleased with work Wheeler had done in the past and would consider his bid along with other bids received.

Nursing home to be expanded

MALDEN — A 60-bed expansion project to double the capacity of Ridgeview Manor Nursing Home in Malden has been approved by the Missouri Office of Comprehensive Health Planning, according to Moody Summitt, director of the Bootheel Comprehensive Health Council. The nursing home, presently a 60- bed facility, is privately owned.

Medical capital expenditures for the proposal has been set at $550,300, Summitt said.

City will not make up deficit

Acting City Manager Bill Whitlock said today the City of Sikeston will not help make up any deficit in the operating costs of ambulance service in the area.

The deficits will be made up by the County Courts of Scott and New Madrid counties.

An article in Monday's edition of The Daily Standard said deficits would be made up on a pro- rata basis by the counties and Sikeston. But Whitlock said today that Sikeston will not be asked to help eliminate any deficits.

Accident injures 5 persons

Five persons were injured — one seriously — at 12:50 p.m. Monday on an unmarked asphalt road four miles east of the Grant City community when a car, left, driven east by Betsy Hampton, 38, of Bloomfield, attempted to make a left turn and was struck by a westbound car, right, driven by Jim Harris, 47, of Benton Route One. The injured persons were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Bootheel temperatures dropped by cold front

The sweltering temperatures that gripped Southeast Missouri during the weekend have been cooled by a cold front stationed over the Bootheel, according to Dennis Slaughter, a meteorologist at the United States Weather Service Station in Cairo, Ill.

Malden reported the monthly high in the area Friday with a temperature of 104 degrees. Other high temperatures recorded Friday were 102 in Poplar Bluff and Sikeston; 101 degrees in East Prairie; 100 degrees in Portageville and 99 degrees in Charleston and Kennett. The mercury climbed to 100 degrees for the first time this year a day earlier in Malden, Poplar Bluff and East Prairie.

Most of the high temperatures during the weekend were about 20 degrees higher than July's monthly average air temperature, according to the weather recorder at the University of Missouri Delta Research Center in Portageville.

One or two "hot spells" can be expected every summer, Slaughter said. "The dryness in the area contributed to the high temperatures, he said.

Effects of the hot dry weather are being felt throughout the area. Tasseling corn can be damaged by temperatures above 113 degrees. "The soil can easily reach that with the hot weather we've been having," John Young, area farm management specialist at the University of Missouri Extension Center in Benton said Monday.

Breezy winds are drying moisture from the soil and irrigation systems, but most crops are doing well, he said.

Farmers with livestock may have noticed depressed weight gains during the hot weather, according to Dave Kelly, livestock specialist in Portageville. When the animals are exposed to high temperatures for more than 24 hours, severe gaining inefficiency may result, he said. Kelly suggests that livestock producers provide temporary shade and mists of water to cool the animals at least once during the day.

Paul Rice, a manager at the Missouri Utilities office in Cape Girardeau said company -wide electrical demand has increased six and one- half per cent since May.

Residents asked to cut water use during dry spell

Dry weather has sent the demand for water soaring and Sikeston Light and Water Co. officials today asked residents to curtail their use of water.

The demand for water has placed a heavy burden on the city's filtration plant, according to Dick Inman, director of municipal utilities.

Inman said the city is using water from its storage facilities, but the demand is so great it is unable to pump enough water back into the storage tanks to keep them filled.

"We have added an additional crew at nights in order to keep up with the demand by operating the plant on a manual basis," Inman said. "This still did not alleviate the 'catch up' situation that we were faced with. The supply of water from our wells is more than adequate but the limitations of our filtering plant will just not keep up with the demand."

Inman asked residents not to water their lawns and to conserve water whenever possible.

He said if there was a large fire in the city, the fire department might have trouble getting enough water.

During the first 22 days of July the city used an average of $3,040,000 gallons of water, with a peak demand when the temperature reached 102 degrees last Friday of $4,101,000 gallons.

In comparison, during the first 22 days of July 1971, the average water usage was only 2,499,774 gallons with a peak demand of 3,108,000 gallons. Last year the city used 2,655,709 gallons, with a peak uses of 3,023,000 gallons.

Only four times from 1971 through 1973 did the city reach the three- million gallon mark, according to Dick Lucy, superintendent of the city sewer and water plants. The first 22 days of this month, the city averaged above the three - million mark, he said.

The city is renovating the old filtering plant, but because of material delivery schedules, work will not be completed until late August. The old plant was closed in 1964. With the renovation the city will add 750,000 gallons to its capacity.

However, Inman said, the renovation will not solve the water problem for the city.

The city is growing so fast, a new plant is needed, he said. Voters will be asked to approve a bond issue in the fall for the construction of a new facility to be completed early next summer.

Madrid man named recorder of deeds

NEW MADRID — Ben H. Ashley, 46, of New Madrid has been appointed recorder of deeds for New Madrid County, succeeding Linus E. Young of Portageville, whose resignation was filed with Gov. Christopher Bond effective July 16.

Young accepted a position with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare as an attorney- examiner of the Bureau of Hearings and Appeals of Washington, D. C. He will be stationed in St. Louis to handle appeals of decisions made at local offices.

Young was elected recorder of New Madrid County at the general election in 1970 and had filed as a candidate for re-election.

Ashley has been in the abstract business for years. He presently heads the Security Abstract Company.

He will complete Young's term, which expires Dec. 31.

Ashley will be the first Republican county official in New Madrid County for the past 30 years.

The last Republican county official was placed in office due to the death of the late Circuit Clerk T. A. Lee. E. M. Radcliffe was appointed circuit clerk by Gov. Forrest C. Donnell, on Nov. 15, 1944.

Mrs. Doris Hampton and Miss Ann Evans Copeland, who were deputy recorders under Young, have been reappointed.

PUBLIC BLAMED FOR INFLATION

Herbert Stein, Chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, in a television interview has said that the public is responsible for inflation. He places the blame on the fact that for the past decade the public has fought increases taxes.

We agree that the public is basically responsible for inflation. We also point out that Congress and the Executive Branch of the government have aided and abetted the American public in its excessive demands for services at the lowest tax rates.

By and large the American public seems blind to the fact that the government doesn't make any money. It just operates by spending the taxes levied on the citizens.

Still, we continue to demand better highways, better police protection, more welfare, space travel, better sanitation facilities, clean air, clean water, etc., etc., etc. In fact we want the best of everything we can get from the government at a low, low tax rate.

The result is that candidates for elected offices promise to vote for many of these things if elected, and those who get elected work hard to give them to the public so they can stay in their jobs. They also know that the public does not want higher taxes and so the elected official tries to keep them down.

Common sense tells us that we can't keep running a government that keeps increasing the public debt by spending more than it collects in taxes.

It is time that we realize that there is a limit to the demands we can put on our government, and it is time that Congress and the Executive Branch cut back on their spending.

We support Chairman Stein's proposal that the government adopt a policy of strict governmental spending limits, a balanced budget and no tax deductions. Otherwise, this country is going broke with a bigger bang than it has ever experienced.

APPEAL TO GOVERNOR

We commend State Treasurer James I. Spainhower for calling on Governor Christopher S. Bond to withdraw all gubernatorial appointments to state boards and commissions made to replace persons whose terms had not expired and who had not resigned.

Spainhower said bluntly the governor has made an imprudent grab for complete control of each of the state's fourteen reorganized divisions of government.

The State Treasurer said it appears Governor Bond has interpreted the language of the reorganization bill in such a way as to permit him to make wholesale changes in the personnel of the state's various boards and commissions.

Spainhower said the governor's legal right to do this is a matter for possible judicial determination, but he believed that the action, whether or not technically legal, "is in clear violation of a long and firmly established principle." He explained that there is a clearly established constitutional, statutory and public call for staggered appointments to prevent undue influence by one man or woman over the commissions and boards which control the operations of state agencies and departments.

Treasurer Spainhower was particularly concerned for the effect of Governor Bond's appointments on the departments of Conservation, Highways and Education, since Missouri has a long history of keeping these departments free from partisan control. He said that concept should be protected and not circumvented by reorganization.

Senate President Pro Tem William J. Cason yesterday expressed great concern about the governor's actions, taken during transfer of state agencies to new departments as a part of state organization.

Senator Cason indicated an investigation was underway.

He also pointed out that the Missouri Senate still had its right of confirmation of some of the personnel involved. However, he also pointed out that new appointees take office upon appointment and that would give the governor six months of untrammeled power.

We regret that Governor Bond has created a storm in which to launch state reorganization ordered by the people of Missouri in the hopes of achieving better government.

We feel the purpose of reorganization may yet be achieved -- but not by tampering with our time-proved commission system.

THE GOD OF NATURE

Part of the reason for a nostalgic desire to return to yesterday is an imaginary conception of what yesterday was like. Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz, in discussing the place of chemicals in food production, struck a realistic note that should help bring the dreamers back to Earth. He said, "It would be absolutely impossible to feed 207 million Americans, even on a subsistence level, without a substantial input of chemicals, of pesticides, of antibiotics. Food today is more healthful. We've banished the scab from the potato, we've taken the parasite out of the pig, we've taken the worm from the apple. The basic problem with us in America, I think -- and one of the reasons we get so much drive for organic agriculture -- is that two thirds of Americans are so young that they never had the experience of biting into a wormy apple and looking at the worm hole and wondering 'Is he still in there, or did I get him?' Those people think that the god of nature automatically made nice, red, juicy, plump, nutritious apples. As a matter of fact, the god of nature put the worm in the apple and man took him out."

What is true of the apple is true of many other phases of life where man has removed the traps that the god of nature has placed in his way.

WHICH WILL IT BE?

Stunning is the only word that can adequately describe the rising demands for energy that confront many of the nation's investor - owned electric companies. The vice president in charge of sales and marketing for a major Eastern electric company says, "In the next decade, 75 per cent of our growth in demand will come from our existing 800,000 customers." In other words, a doubling of energy requirements expected to take place in the '70's for this one company is mostly accounted for by the additional uses which present customers, mostly residential users, are expected to make of electric energy.

Another official of the company, in explaning the expected rise in energy use over the next decade, observed that, "Only 35 to 50 per cent of our customers have an air conditioner." He predicts this percentage will rise well above 50 per cent during the decade. He also observed that new developments will be all electric and that electricity will begin taking over functions now performed by other types of energy or not performed at all. Many environmentalists favor expanded use of electricity because, in the Federal Power Commission's words, "... it is easier ... to control pollution at a large central power station than at a multiplicity of small furnaces or other energy converters ..."

The company's plans for meeting the inexorable rise in demand for electric power in one of the most heavily populated regions of the United States hinge on the assumption that there will be no more delays in the building of vital nuclear facilities. Whether that assumption is correct rests, in this case and in others like it all over the country, upon the wisdom of environmentalists, the public and countless regulatory agencies -- all of whom must choose between crippling obstructionism and reliance on technology and the resourcefulness of the energy industry which is the foundation of today's civilization.

FACTS MUST BE FACED

A leading petroleum geologist, Dr. Wilson Laird, stresses that "even more than Alaska, the area that appears to hold the greatest promise for supply our projected increasing petroleum needs is the submerged portion of this continent." He expressed belief that opponents of marine exploration and drilling for oil are "... playing heavily on fear and playing down the facts." He enumerates facts that are beyond dispute.

Some 16.4 per cent of our domestic crude oil production and 14.7 per cent of our domestic gas production currently comes from marine areas. This means that, on the average, about one - and- three-quarter million barrels of oil are produced daily from marine wells -- with minimal pollution impact. He reports that "... some 14,000 wells have been drilled in the marine environment to date, and only two of them produced spills that resulted in serious pollution. None-- repeat, none-- resulted in permanent environmental damage ..." Another point made by Dr. Laird is that along the Atlantic seaboard, for example, where offshore drilling is a highly controversial subject, oil producing operations would range far beyond the sight of land -- 30 to 200 miles off the coast. He further pointed out that experience in the Gulf of Mexico has demonstrated that fishing and production of oil are not imcompatible. In truth, drilling platforms actually attract fish.

The public must face facts such as those presented by Dr. Laird, and the oil industry must be encouraged to pursue the development of the nation's oil resources as rapidly as practicable within the framework of honest environmental and energy requirements.

VICTORY FOR PROPERTY RIGHTS

Constructive Congressmen won an important legislative victory when the House of Representatives defeated Rep. Morris Udall's federal land-use bill. The Udall bill threatened the rights of every land-owning citizen.

The bill would have imposed land- use "guidelines" on states receiving federal grants. The "guidelines" were so broad that they would have affected private citizens as well as the government entities receiving the grants. The guidelines were supported by radical environmentalists and left- siders, but had gained support elsewhere because of propaganda describing the bill as necessary for the protection of the environment. Instead, the bill in effect would have given non- elected federal bureaucrats a large amount of control over private property use.

Earlier this year, observers believed that the bill would easily pass, but constructive Congressmen, led by Rep. Sam Steiger of Arizona, organized their opposition effectively. Business organizations such as the U.S. Chamber of Commerce worked hard. Construction unions joined in making a united business- labor front. These defenders of private property rights worked tirelessly to inform lawmakers of the evils of the bill and won.

The experience with the Udall bill shows that strong and united efforts on behalf of good causes can succeed against heavy odds. It also shows that the right of a property owner to dispose of his own land as he chooses, so long as he does not infringe on the rights of others, is still respected, as well it must be if a society is to remain free. Meany Golfs Again: White House to put Anti- Inflation Show on the road across nation

WASHINGTON — They're playing client golf again at the Burning Tree country club. But it's difficult to tell who's whose client. Labor chief George Meany, who has been clobbering Dick Nixon and warning Federal Reserve chairman Arthur Burns to keep "his cotton- pickin' hands" off the economy, was on the links one recent Sunday morning with the President's newest economic counselor, Ken Rush.

Acting as broker and ideological caddy was former Treasury Secretary George Shultz, one of the few chaps with whom Meany is on speaking terms. The game plan was to let Meany win, soften him up and get him to resume diplomatic relations with the White House. Then Meany could tell his millions of followers to restrain themselves on wage demands.

Well, even if Meany, a self-made curmudgeon, was willing to yield, which isn't likely, he'd have to use his niblick to club his labor associates and the uncontrollable rank and file. Meany, who also has just played golf at Burning Tree with some of his own construction labor officials, can't even keep them in line, though in their powerful circles lies his greatest influence.

For example, though the building and construction trades unions -- with some 3.5 million members -- have been having a pay day hey- day, their new national chief, 41-year- old Bob Georgine, has apparently set off a new inflation wave by telling his people they need more money for "catch up."

This is one of the most significant developments in the whole inflation "thing." Big chunks of the economy are hooked to the gargantuan $138 billion (a year) construction field. So it sets the pace.

And despite their complaints, the construction workers average cash wage rate ran close to $8 an hour until April 1. Before overtime. Now add an average of $1.32 an hour for holiday pay, Health coverage, welfare, pensions, etc.

All this is much higher now -- by about 10 per cent. So construction workers now earn an average of $10 an hour. This is an average, mind you. There are far higher wages. And the score card will show that the construction trades have kept ahead of the demon Cost of Living (Consumer Price) Index. Still they talk about catch up.

Yes, some of them in spotty sections are jobless. But lots more will be. The White House will crack down in some fashion if wages and costs continute to rocket.

"We have weapons," says one informed presidential adviser. "They (the construction local unions) have gone crazy. What good will increases do them? Sure they can get $5 an hour more. But they will price themselves out of the market. The White House froze considerable construction work in 1970 by executive order. The government costs were running too high. So construction money was impounded. And remember, the government is the nation's biggest customer in many a field, especially construction."

There is increasing clamor for action. Some congressional and federal leaders are beginning to table- thump ever louder and soon the outcry will come from non- unionized workers. It's not generally recognized that construction is intricately hooked to our daily lives. Many public employes -- the laborers, for example -- don't really bargain with their municipalities or states. They wait until the construction labor rates are set in the private sector. Then they "classify" in.

Thus the new famous 160 San Francisco street cleaners "earn" $17,059 a year -- based on laborers private - sector rates. This pushes up local and state taxes -- on income, sales and real estate (rents).

Certainly the cost of living has left millions of other workers behind. But that doesn't seem to impress the construction workers' elite rank and file who harass their leaders as well as the public.

Just what the President can do about all this isn't certain. Arthur Burns, for example, wants the Cost of Living Council and its controls revived.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield has called for wage-price controls. Congressman Wilbur Mills has called for impounding of at least $10 billion of federal spending. And he's chairman of the all-powerful House Ways and Means Committee.

Officially the administration is preparing for regional labor- management conferences. Perhaps that is what they discussed with Meany on the links. Ken Rush also has talked with the Teamsters president Frank Fitzsimmons. He, of course, is backing up the President. Meany disdains administration statements as "baloney" one can't eat. But there will be regional "consultative" conferences. White House objective is to "open up" in Chicago July 26 with a conference starring Vice President Jerry Ford.

So, actually, there is no visible action. But says one who helped write Dick Nixon's latest speech, "We are really on the way, three steps forward and two steps back."

He added that "the preliminary figures show the sharp cut of the first quarter has been blunted. I have divided our world in three groups -- one, the financial community, which always is in chaos; two, the consumer community, which is stiffening, and three, the producers who once could sell anything and now discover they can't ... Ken Rush is a great believer in communications and negotiations. Could work. But it will take years."

He said we have to get stability without fireworks. And we're on our way there -- if we can keep the wage- prive front from exploding again. Maybe those golf clubs could do some good after all.

NO MORE GAMBLE

WASHINGTON — Safeway Stores has just announced a new pricing policy. It says it will only stamp one price on a box or can of food and will not change the price while it's on the shelves.

While some people consider this a breakthrough in supermarket shopping, there are others who feel this will take the thrill out of grocery buying.

My friend Milton Wallach was highly critical of the Safeway proposal. "The thing I liked about going to a supermarket is that it was like going to a casino in Las Vegas. The big gamble was to get out of the store before they changed the price on you. You only had a half- hour to do it and the excitement for me was running down the aisles pushing my cart, with a stockboy chasing after me trying to stamp my goods with a new price before I got to the checkout counter."

Wallach, who has spent a lot of time in supermarkets, said that in recent months there have been so many prices on food packages you could hardly read the labels.

"I would go into the store and ask the clerk, 'Where are the baked beans you advertised for 40 cents?' He would reply, 'Oh those must be the ones we raised to 55 cents this morning. They were marked down from 62 cents, 57 cents and 45 cents last week. You better get them right away because I think they're going up to 70 cents in 10 minutes.' ".

In his observation Wallach discovered that in every supermarket the manager makes his own decision on what to charge for an item. "I was in one store and I saw a box of crackers with 65 cents stamped on them.

"The manager happened to walk by and saw one of his clerks perspiring. 'Is it hot out?' he asked the boy.

" 'It's 92 degrees,' the clerk replied.

"So the manager took out a rubber stamp and marked 92 cents on the crackers.

"At another store the manager kept a racing form at the counter. I had a package of meat in my basket marked $2.80. He stamped it $4.50 and I asked him why. 'That's what the winner in the 5th race at Aqueduct paid yesterday.' "

Every store, says Wallach, has a different method of raising prices. "Some send their stockboys down the aisles every 15 minutes stamping everything they can see. Others have their stampers waiting at key points and as soon as you pass they start stamping everything in you basket. A few get carried away. In one store I was wearing white shoes and one of the lads had stamped $2.50, $4.50 and $6.50 on them. I complained to the manager who apologized and gave me a free can of white shoe clearer which was marked 67 cents, 89 cents and $1.50."

Occasionally Wallach says there is a slip-up and he'll find a package that doesn't have a price on it at all. "Last week I was in a supermarket and I found a box of blueberries that some price stamper had missed. I asked the man at the counter how much it was. He didn't know and sent me to the manager. The manager called up his broker and said, 'How much is IBM selling for today?' The broker told him 212, and so the manager stamped $2.12 cents on the box."

Wallach feels Safeway's new one- price policy will discourage people from going to the supermarket. "Buying food is the biggest numbers game in the country," he said. "The average American still gets his kicks from trying to guess what a can of tuna is going to cost him. If you can buy a can of tomato paste 15 minutes before the price goes up on it, your day is made. You may win some and you may lose some, but at least you had fun playing the game.

"If Safeway takes the gamble out of grocery buying, many of its customers may decide the ell with it and go back into the stock market again."

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Divided Loyalties Weaken Greek Armed Forces

WASHINGTON — Behind the Greek military posturing in the Mediterranean, confidential NATO documents warn that the Greek armed forces are so divided and weak they couldn't whip the Turkish army in a badminton match.

A May, 1974, draft report to the North Atlantic Assembly declares bluntly: "The effect upon the (Greek) armed forces of almost seven years of dictatorship, accompanied by periodic upheavals and a succession of savage purges, has been severely to distort their command structure and to create an atmosphere of suspicion and antagonism among factions of the officer corps with differing political views and sharply divided loyalties."

Nevertheless, the Nixon Administration has insisted upon backing the Greek junta. As late as June 26, Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger testified before the Senate that "as far as the military side of the alliance is concerned, Greece remains an effective member."

This is disputed by confidential NATO information, which is available to Schlesinger. States one document: "There are growing doubts about the extent to which the Greek armed forces as a whole, disunited as they are and dissipated by police and supervisory functions, are capable of playing their part in the NATO defense strategy."

From other classified documents and confidential sources, we have gleaned the following intelligence items about the explosive situation in the Mediterranean:

-- The Nixon Administration, in the language of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, is "tilting" toward the Greek officers who overthrew Archbishop Makarios in Cyprus. Kissinger realizes this is an unpopular position among State Department bureaucrats and European allies. Indeed, he has already started leaking stories about how agonized he is by the necessity to support military dictators. But he sees the new junta leader, Nikos Sampson, as preferable to Makarios.

-- The ruthless Sampson, formerly a guerrilla assassin, has been receiving secret CIA financial support for years. Our CIA sources say this is merely the intelligence agency's standard hedge of supporting both sides in a dispute. But Sampson, now a rich newspaperman, received money to support his publishing empire through Savyas Konstantopoulos, publisher of the Athens Free World. Konstantopoulos, say our sources, has long been on the CIA payroll.

-- For that matter, Archbishop Makarios also collected CIA cash. Extremely reliable sources told us that Makarios simply blackmailed the CIA. If the agency wanted to keep its extensive facilities on Cyprus, Makarios allegedly told them, they had to pay for the privilege.

President Nixon and Secretary Kissinger appear to be the last holdouts in the free world in their support of the Greek and Cyprus juntas. According to one confidential NATO document, our European allies have been eager "to hasten the transfer of power from unsophisticated and parochial military men ... to a political government enjoying the confidence of the people."

-- Sources who have been reliable in the past say even the CIA has given up on the Greek junta and is secretly pulling its main facilities out of Greece. The CIA reportedly is transferring many important functions from Athens to Teheran, in the apparent belief that the Shah of Iran is a safer bet than the Greek military dictatorship.

HAYS HOLLERS: The terrible- tempered Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, has tried to kick muckraker Ralph Nader's reporters out of public hearings. "You're nothing but a crummy thieving bunch of liars," roared Hays at a Nader reporter after a recent hearing. "If I'd known you were in there, I would have thrown you out." The Nader news bureau's stories about Hays have so infuriated him that he asked two subscribing papers to cancel the service, he told us. From here on, he'll try to bar them from the press tables.

INDISCREET MEMO: Housing Undersecretary Floyd Hyde recently picked up his papers and left the government to join McManis Associates consulting firm. Not long afterward, his subcabinet colleague, Transportation Undersecretary John Barnum, sent a memo to his underlings suggesting that they keep Hyde in mind "in case you have any problems for consultants that he might be able to help you with." In bureaucratic Washington, this is practically an order to hire Hyde's firm. Cautioned about the impropriety, Barnum hurried off a second letter nine days later saying he feared the first one "may be misconstrued," thus, in effect, withdrawing it.

SEX APPEALS: The brass hats at Ft. Hood, Tex., recently advertised for "go-go dancers" to perform in its 12 clubs for officers and noncoms. A spokesman assured us that the bikini- clad girls are paid from club profits. Not to be outdone, Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Mass., placed an ad for a belly dancing instructor. "It's for a physical education class for women," said a spokesman. "There's quite a bit of physical fitness required for the fine art of belly dancing."

Shirley Moore is summer bride of Glen Richardson

LAWRENCE, Kan. — Miss Shirley Ann Moore and Glen Edward Richardson, both of Kansas City, were united in marriage June 29 in a 7:30 p.m. ceremony at the First Church of the Nazarene in Lawrence.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Jordan of Mansfield, Mo., and J. W. Moore of Gastonia, N.C.; and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Richardson of Sikeston, Mo. Route Two.

Soloist, the Rev. Howard Borgeson of Kansas City, sang traditional wedding selections for the ceremony.

The altar was adorned with arrangements of yellow gladiolas.

Jim and Susan Quiggens of Lawrence were candlelighters.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Edward Richardson

The bride wore a formal gown of sata peau, with bands of Venise lace accented with pearls around the high collar, cuffs, bishop sleeves and along the edges of the attached train. The lace and pearls also extended down the front of the dress. The gown featured a tie jabot on the bodice and was complimented by a finger tip veil framed and held by a Venise lace motif frame. The bride carried a cascade of roses, daisies, ivy and stephanotis.

Mrs. Linda Murray of Ava, Mo., served her sister as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Edith Boehle of Lawrence, sister of the bride, and Genny Zeigler of St. Charles, Mo.

They wore yellow gowns and carried nosegays of yellow and white daisies, yellow roses, orange star flowers and baby's breath.

Flower girl was Miss Rhonda Fuge of Mansfield, Mo., niece of the bride.

The groom chose Gerald Dwyer of Lawrence as best man. Groomsmen were Jim Latty of Gladstone, Mo., brother- in- law of the groom, and James Boehle of Lawrence, brother- in- law of the bride.

Men of the wedding party wore black, Prince Edward tuxedos with flared trousers, white ruffled shirts and black velvet trim.

Tim Latty of Gladstone, Mo., nephew of the groom, was ringbearer.

A reception followed in the fellowship hall of the church.

The couple honeymooned in thy Ozarks and is now at home at 2611 Norwood Ave., Independence, Mo.

Ann Landers

Tickling boyfriend goes too far

Dear Ann Landers: Please settle our first fight. Bud and I have been dating for four months and I really love him. The problem is that lately he has become a tickling maniac. At first I thought it was funny, but now he's driving me crazy.

Last night he actually tied my hands and held me in a chair while his best frined took off my shoes and hose and tickled the bottom of my feet with a feather for what seemed like an eternity.

When they finally untied me I used some language I didn't know was part of my vocabulary. They were shocked -- and so was I.

Now Bud is mad at me and says I made a big scene over nothing. I claim that what he did was not normal. He says I'm the one who is loony.

It took me months to get this guy to notice me and ask me out. This first fight is killing me. What do you make of it? -- Still Rattled

Dear Still Rattled: Your "dreamboat" has a streak of sadism an inch thick and a yard wide. To tickle for fun, for a few seconds, is O.K. But to tie a girl's hands and invite a buddy in as part of the act is pretty sick stuff and you'd better recognize it now before the dingbat graduates to whips and chains.

Dear Ann Landers: I am having an argument with a friend and when I tell you what my question is you will know why I have to write to you. No way could I go to anyone else.

Is it possible for a human being to get pregnant by an animal? All I need is a yes or a no. I will take your word for it. -- No Name No City Please

Dear N.N.N.C: The answer is NO. And you can take my word for it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a registered nurse who has worked in some of the finest hospitals in town for several years. Due to some personal problems I went to pieces and had to spend a few weeks in a mental institution. The diagnosis was "depression."

Recently I applied to the hospital (in which I was a patient) for a part- time job. I was able to supply excellent references and a very impressive work record. One of the questions on the application form was, "Have you ever received psyciaatric treatment for an emotional breakdown?" Of course I answered honestly.

I did not get the job and I later learned that no one even bothered to check with the people whose names I gave as references.

There is no question in my mind as to why I wasn't hired. It was because of my "psychiatric history."

From now on if I ever see that question on an application form again, I will not answer truthfully. What a shame to put such a stigma on one who has had help with an emotional problem. And how dreadful to make liars out of people. Will you comment please? -- Smarter Now

Dear Smarter: I believe that question should be declared illegal on all job application forms. Actually it does not weed out the unstable or incompetents. It serves no useful purpose whatever.

I consider individuals who have had psychiatric therapy or professional counseling "extra special." It is evidence that the person recognized he had a problem he couldn't handle alone and was willing to do something about it.

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers's booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." For a copy, mail 35 cent in coin and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P. O. box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654.

Rev. and Mrs. Henry Smith Sr.

Smiths observe 50th anniversary

CLINE'S ISLAND—Castor River General Baptist Church, located near Cline's Island, was the scene of the surprise golden wedding anniversary and reception for the Rev. and Mrs. Henry Smith Sr. of Sikeston Route One.

The couple exchanged and renewed their wedding vows July 5 in a 7 p.m. ceremony. The couple was married July 11, 1924 in Van Buren County, Ark.

The Rev. Fee Jones of Sikeston, a longtime friend of the family, conducted the single-ring ceremony in the church chancel amid an arrangement of split-leaf philodendrums, blue and white daisies, carnations and other flowers centered around the large church family Bible.

The bride and groom were surprised at the church by memebers of their family from Iowa and California and approximately 200 other friends and acquaintances from the surrounding area. Members of the church assisted the family in church decoration, planning and serving.

The church was decorated with floral arrangements of blue and white daisies and accented by curtains of streamers in identical colors. The aisle of the church became a promenade of golden colors of anniversary streamers that hung from ceiling to floor.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her husband of 50 years while the pianist, Mr. Ricki McClure of Bloomfield, played the "Wedding March".

As the couple entered, the bride was presented a floral arrangement of arrogated red and white carnations which she carried down the aisle.

The couple was preceded by candlelighters, Miss Lisa McGarrity and Miss Karen Wyman of Essex; the maid-of-honor, Mrs. Robert (Chigger) Lang of Essex; the bridesmaid, Miss Sandi Wyman of Bloomfield; the flower girl, Miss Angie Vandiver of Bloomfield; and the ring bearer Donald Ritch of Gray Ridge. Best man was the Rev. Smith's son, Henry (Buck) Smith of Sikeston, and the groomsman was Robert Land of Essex.

Mrs. Nola Kleffer attended the guestbook, and Mike Lane of Essex sang, "Let Me Be Your Sweetheart" and "The Wedding Prayers."

The couple exchanged vows and then surprised those in attendance by singing, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," to show their appreciation to the church.

A reception followed at the church where the couple cut the blue and white three-tiered wedding cake. Serving the cake and punch were Mrs. Edward McGarrity, Mrs. Carl (Lenore) Smith, Mrs. Etta Wyman and Mrs. Marceda Wyman all of Essex.

Scouts plan events for bicentennial

Girl Scouts in the Cotton Boll Council headquarted in Sikeston, are now making plans to observe the United States' bicentennial.

During the 1974-75 school year,the scouts plan to center their observances around the theme "Heritage '76". Badge projects have been established for each level of scouting, and badges will be designed by the bicentennial committee on an Our Own Troop blank badge.

Scouts in each neighborhood will be asked to identify and honor "Hidden Heroines" in their area. These should be women who have made some significant contribution to family and community and perhaps have never received any recognition.

Old music, pioneer crafts, and historical sights will also be identified in each area.

Scouts are especially planning to consider older citizens in their town and perhaps tape conversation with them as they reminisce. It is hoped that a booklet can be compiled with information about each area in the Cotton Boll Council.

During the 1975-76 school year, the theme will be "Festival U.S.A.". The Cotton Boll Council will host a national wider opportunity in August 1975, with 100 girl scouts from all over the nation participating. The booklet compiled during the 1974-75 school year will be given to each participant so that she can be informed about Southeast Missouri.

"Horizons '76" is the theme chosen for the 1976-77 school year and plans are under consideration for some type of council trip, such as a birthday party, with the opportunity for each girl in the council to participate.

Mrs. Marvin Barbour of Poplar Bluff is chairman of bicentennial plans and is urging every neighborhood Girl Scout chairman to recruit and recommend to her committee someone in each neighborhood who can help with compiling a list of historical buildings, sights and cemeteries.

Skirt lengths vary

PARIS (AP) — These days it's rather difficult to get all hot and bothered about fashion. Women wear what they want, and if you don't like it, you can just look in another direction.

There is one issue, nonetheless, which still can evoke heated debate among those who care about clothes. You may choose to dress Chinese, Mexican, Japanese, Russian or like a Swiss mountaineer. But what you really want to know is: what length do I wear my skirt?

In the collections for all and winter that the Paris houses begin showing Monday, the mid-calf skirt is back, once again.

It was around in the 1930's, came back in 1947 with the New Look, flopped miserably circa 1970, and now the couture houses are giving the length what may well be its last chance.

If women refuse to wear it now, the long skirt will probably go the way of the whalebone corset. Straight to the attic.

The feeling for next winter is big, loose, soft and long. Everything drops, swings, flops and balloons. Huge coats with big armholes and shoulders dropping to mid-bicep go over easy shirtdresses and skirts that flare with lots of gathers at the waist.

The waist, incidentally, is always marked and sometimes severely so, with a wide belt. The silk blouse has a tie collar.

The midcalf skirt should be worn with boots. No leg should show. That's exactly how it was worn four years ago, and it's still a good idea for cold weather. No one, but no one should be wearing pants any more.

For evening, skirts have shortened. The ankle is the correct length for soft dresses in crepe, satin and chiffon. Think of it as the spirit of contradiction or the quest for new forms, but designers simply can't resist shortening and lengthening skirts.

Lessons for Young Bicyclists to Learn

Chief Leon R. Culp
Sikeston Police Department

Lesson No. 12 - Coasting and Racing on Bikes

In the year 1839 the first bicycle was invented by a man named Kirkpatrick Macmillan of Scotland. Of course, this first model was much different than the bicycles of today. Bicycling soon became very popular, mainly among adults, but it was destined to become a very handy method of transportation among youngsters also.

I think it is important to devote a full lesson to coasting and racing because most young peoople like to coast and race frequently on their bikes. It seems whenever a youngster gets a new bike the first thing he wants to know is how fast can he go on it and how far will it coast.

Racing on bikes is great sport, if it is done in the proper place at the right time. The fastest speed on record ever achieved on a bike was 127.243 miles per hour, and this record is held by Jose Meiffret, a Frenchman, It was set in July 1962.

The greatest distance ever covered in one hour, on a bicycle, was 76 miles, 604 yards. This record was set in France 1928 by Leon Vanderstuyft, a Belgian.

Bicycling has been on the Olympics program since 1896, and it holds the interest of fans down through the years. Needless to say, it is a healthy and worthwhile sport.

Whetner you plan to be a professional bicylist or just like to race for the fun of it, there are certain definite rules you must follow. The first rule is....you NEVER race on your bike on a public street or highway. When you are racing you do not have the control of your bike that you would normally have when riding for other reasons. Also, you might take dangerous chances in order to beat the person you are racing with. The professional bike racers don't practice on streets and highways. They practice off the streets because they know it is not safe for themselves and others to race on public throughfares.

Coasting down long hills is something everyone likes to do too. But, remember, when you get to the bottom of the hill, you don't want to be traveling so fast that you cannot stop in case a car comes out of a side street, or someone walks across the street in front of you. Coasting allows you to reach speeds on your bike that are not safe. If you were to have an accident, due to coasting too fast, it would do no good to say afterward, "I'm sorry, I was going so fast I couldn't stop."

So, the rule is: if you wish to race with friends, find a place to race where you will be off the public streets at all times. No part of the race route should be on a street, road or highway! And, allow your bike to coast only for short distances and be sure you are in control of it at all times, when you are riding on public streets.

QUESTION	YES	NO
It is o.k. to coast down long hills fast. If you can't stop at the bottom, other people will have to get out of your way.	___	___
Do professional bike racers practice racing on public highways?	___	___
Racing with friends on streets or highways is fun, but it is too dangerous.	___	___

Good places to hold a bike race would be, empty lots, private roads, race tracks, playgrounds (where permitted.)

Real Estate

REALTOR

PRICING YOUR HOUSE RIGHT

The value of your house is not what you think it is — or what the buyer thinks. It is determined chiefly by the location, the neighborhood, and the current market. An overpriced house sitting on the market for months becomes almost impossible to sell. So first, you must get in line with the market. That means a realistic appraisal.

Nobody - but nobody - is more acutely aware of the current housing market than your local Realtor. A capable Realtor can bring his own appraisal expert or even a team of salesmen who will individually price your home and then reach a fair concensus. Or you can hire a qualified independent appraiser. You may be pleasantly surprised to find out that you were intending to price your house for less than its fair market value.

If possible, your price should include curtains, draperies, refrigerator, air-conditioners, dishwasher, built-ins. It's a better package deal and may hasten the sale.

(Editor's Note: Mr. Mitchell is Past President of the Sikeston Board of Realtors and is currently serving as Vice- President of the Missouri Association of Realtors.)

Rosenberg spy case now in book

PORTAGEVILLE — A new book at the New Madrid County Library in Portageville is "The Implosion Conspiracy", by Louis Nizer.

Called a "legendary attorney" by Newsweek, Nizer has depicted the greatest spy story of the century -- the true account of the Rosenberg espionage case, brilliantly set forth in both its human and its legal aspects.

Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, her brother David Greenglass, Morton Sobel and others were charged with passing along to Soviet Russia the secrets of the device that triggers the atom bomb.

The trial that resulted will go down in history as one of the major courtroom dramas of all time.

The emotional content of the story is at times almost overwhelming: the love story of Ethel and Julius that endured through waves of hope and despair, and was expressed in love letters between them while in the death house; the betrayal of Ethel by her beloved younger brother David, whose testimony sent her to the chair.

The heartbreaking visits to Sing Sing by the Rosenbergs' 4 and 8- year-old sons; the heroism of their attorney, Emanuel Block, who gave his life for his clients in a losing cause; the mounting frenzy of worldwide protest at the death; the touching appeal of Ethel Rosenberg to President Eisenhower -- and finally, the horror of the execution chamber.

114 Vets in Camp

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Football League owners are sweetening the pot for the 114 veterans who have crossed picket lines and reported to training camp.

The NFL Management Council, bargaining agency for the owners in the labor dispute with the NFL Players Association, ordered a salary increase Monday night for all players, including rookies and free agents, who are in training.

The action came after negotiations had moved back to point zero with no date set for future contract bargaining.

Federal Mediator James Scearce said Monday the negotiations had collapsed and that he did not intend to call another meeting until "there is reason to believe that the talks will result in progress."

In New York, Wellington Mara, chairman of the NFLMC executive committee, announced that it was immediately "authorizing the 26 clubs to implement the improved pay schedule to all players now in training camps."

This means that each rookie will now get $200 a week while in camp, rather than a daily pay of $15.65. And the veterans who defied the union will get an additional 10 per cent of their salary, up to $10,000 for the training season.

Earlier in the day, Scearce conducted a brief bargaining session to which the players union sent seven representatives but the management sent only attorney Sargent Karch.

"There are no proposals," said Karch as he walked down the hall after remaining in the room only a few minutes. "I'll be back when there are proposals the players association wishes to give us."

Then Scearce announced that he did not plan to call any more meetings at the present time.

NFLMC representatives said Sunday, after 2½ days of negotiations which ended with the owners walking out, that they would not attend any more meetings until the union made new proposals.

At a news conference here Monday afternoon, Bill Curry, union president, and Ed Garvey, the executive director, accused the owners of refusing to negotiate in an attempt to break the union, which they said would not happen.

Among their demands, the players want elimination of the reserve and option clauses.

The owners have said acceptance of the players 63 demands, including the 13 socalled freedom demands, would lead to anarchy. They say they are willing to talk modification but not abolishment of NFL rules and regulations.

Mara, owner of the New York Giants, said earlier it now is likely the NFL will play the exhibition season with rookies, free agents and the veterans who reported to training camp.

Under a ruling by the council, fans who have tickets for the Hall of Fame game in Canton, Ohio, Saturday and for the first week of preseason games Aug. 2-5, will be able to get a refund if they want it and apply for the money 48 hours before the game.

Entries sought

Entries are now being accepted for the Southeast Missouri Little League Championship tournament at Parma Aug. 11-18.

Portageville is the defending champions.

Anyone interested in entering should contact Ron Jaynes at 471-6980, 357-4535 or 357-4728. Entry deadline is July 31.

Help needed

Sikeston Little League, Jr. Babe Ruth and Sr. Babe Ruth managers are again urged to stop by The Daily Standard office to identify team photographs.

Runaways in AL

Pre-tournament favorites, Ryan Construction and Nunnelee, scored run-away wins in the opening night of American Little League tournament play Monday. Ryan claimed a 16-9 win and Nunnelee blanked Ziegenhorn 14-0.

Ryan connected for 20 hits in their four inning encounter and was led by the four for four performance of Green, who also scored four times.

Nunnelee rode a two hit pitching performance to their four inning triumph. Howard, Beesley and Howard had three hits each for Nunnelee.

Tournament play resumes this evening with second seeded Bridger facing seventh rated Righter at 6:30 and fourth ranked First National going against fifth seeded Fabick at 8:15.

WFL losers

By The Associated Press

Detroit has already taken a step this week ... a step backwards, that is. Now it's up to the New York Stars and Portland Storm to make sure they don't "catch" the Wheels.

Detroit became the first World Football League to lose three games when it bowed 36-16 to the Hawaiians Sunday night. The Stars and Storm are the only other winless WFL teams.

If the Stars manage to break their late-game bad-luck spell, a lot of people will see them do it. New York travels to Philadelphia to play the Bell in Thursday night's nationally televised game.

In Wednesday night's games, Portland hosts Chicago, Houston is at Florida, Southern California visits Jacksonville and Memphis is at Birmingham.

Harper hits 2 Hr's

Harper hit a pair of home runs and Self connected for a solo blast as league champion, Kiwanis, opened up the National league city tournament with a 19-6 win over Lewis Furniture. Third ranked A & B Leasing turned back sixth seeded Security National 3-1 in the other opening night battle.

Tournament action resumes this evening at 6:30 when second seeded Pizza Inn takes on seventh rated Legion and fourth ranked Jaycees battle number five Lions at 8:15.

McDowell picked up the win for Kiwanis, allowing five hits in the five inning clash. Campbell paced Kiwanis 11 hit attack with three hits, including a double.

Brashears and Williams teamed up in a pitching duel in the nightcap as only five hits were recorded during the contest.

A & B broke a 1-1 deadlock in the top of the sixth with a pair of runs.

Burchfield and Moorman connected for key doubled for A&B to hand Williams the loss.

Stars second

Sikeston took second place last Monday night in the 13- year- old Jr. Babe Ruth district tournament in Charleston after edging Illmo- Scott City 5-4 and falling to Tri- County as they downed Sikeston 8-6.

Cox's power house hit in the seventh drove in the two winning wins by Lee and Launius, giving Sikeston the lead by one. Lambert cracked two- base hits in the first inning of play and Beaudean got a double in the third.

Wasson won the pitching duel against Wadlington.

Tri- County moved to first place when they defeated Sikeston in the second game. They will compete in state action next week in Carthage.

Diebold's standout

VANDUSER — Benton scored a pair of wins behind top pitching performances to remain alive in the Women's invitational fast pitch softball tournament here Monday night.

Cindy Diebold hurled to a 18-5 win over Advance and used the powerful bat of Marty Hubbert who connected for four hits, three of which were triples.

Val Diebold pitched and hit Benton to a 11-1 win over Bloomfield in the nightcap, only two days after booking here second no-hitter of the tournament. Val collected three hits, two of which were doubles.

Benton faces undefeated New Hamburg at 7:15 this evening in hopes of keeping their winning ways alive and forcing 8:45 battle for the title. A loss will give New Hamburg the championship.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "I might throw one in on old Hank to make him feel at home," said Gaylord Perry, the American League's starting All-Star pitcher. The suggestion was that Perry, self-described as a reformed spitball pitcher, might toss a wet one to Henry Aaron for old time's sake.

"I didn't say I'd do it," Perry added with a grin. "I said I'm thinking about it."

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh last hosted the All-Star Game in 1959, and then Vice President Richard M. Nixon watched from the stands as the National League won 5-4.

He was given a loud ovation before the game at old Forbes Field, and he responded with a broad smile and outflung and upraised arms.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Broadcaster Joe Garagiola on Oakland A's slugger Reggie Jackson: "The thing I like about him is that he doesn't treat baseball like it's High Mass."

Garagiola on his old 1952 Pirate team, which finished with a .273 winning percentage: "We had such men as Forrest Main, Clem Keshorek, the O'Brien twins and a fellow who played fiddle ... We lost 112 games on merit that year."

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Even the sports writers and radio broadcasters had to pay to see the 1944 All-Star Game in Pittsburgh. Proceeds went to the purchase of baseball equipment for military bases.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—All-Star Lou Brock has 56 stolen bases and he's 22 games ahead of Maury Wills' 1962 pace when he swiped a record 104.

"Lou is the youngest 35-year-old I've ever seen," says Wills, who'll be in the broadcasting booth for the All-Star clash.

Brock's tribute to Wills: "He's the Godfather of the Basepaths."

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Brooks Robinson of the American League Baltimore Orioles holds one dubious All-Star record. He's played in 14 losing All-Star games.

SPORTS

BOSTON (AP) — A Somerville, Mass., cab driver has defeated the pocket billiards world champion, winning the first annual Copley Silver Bowl and $500 cash.

Lawrence "Boston Shorty" Johnson bested champion Steve Mizerak of Perth Amboy, N.J., 125-45 in the match played before a black tie audience at a hotel Monday night.

Mizerak will defend his crown in Chicago Aug. 5.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The National Weather Service isn't giving any odds on the outcome of tonight's All-Star baseball game, but it is giving a 4-1 chance for favorable weather.

WARRENSBURG — Elmer Kinkade of Bernie has been appointed to the State Soil and Water Districts Commission, according to Natural Resources director James L. Wilson.

The announcement came at a training conference for soil and water district supervisors at Central Missouri State University.

The other new members are Rex Hollenbeck of Lentner, Harley Bogue of Holt, Andrew Luys of Carthage and Betty Broemmelsiek of Defiance.

All five commissioners are farmers, as required by state law. They also are soil and water district supervisors for their individual counties.

Serving as ex-officio members are Wilson and Dean Elmer Kiehl, director of the University of Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station in Columbia.

Missouri's soil and water districts are organized in 104 of the state's 114 counties to be eligible for federal assistance from the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service.

District supervisors are attending a four- day training conference here through Wednesday in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Missouri Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

World news

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirteen previously unpublished memos obtained by the House Judiciary Committee in its impeachment inquiry demonstrate the extent of power which former White House Chief of Staff H.R. Haldeman exercised over the Nixon re-election bid. In part, the memos dealt with Herbert Kalmbach's troubles with political donors who wanted to be ambassadors and claims that Bebe Rebozo was collecting campaign money. In response, Haldeman frequently would jot down campaign opinions and decisions.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon rejected suggestions from his staff that he destroy any White House tapes that might prove politically and historically embarrassing, the Cox Newspapers Washington Bureau reported today. The story quoted a July 25, 1973, memorandum to the President from speechwriter Patrick J. Buchanan, who questioned the sense of keeping the recordings of White House conversations.

DHS principal prepares for school year

DEXTER — Gene McCane, newly employed principal, has moved into his facilities at Dexter High School and is busy preparing for the opening of the school year next month.

McCane, who was secured for the position after former principal John DeArman handed in his resignation to take a post in Kansas City, comes to Dexter from the Twin Rivers School District, where he served for three years as counselor, junior high principal and high school principal, respectively.

Having formerly taught here, McCane is familiar with Dexter's school system. Referring to Dexter's school system as "the finest in the area," McCane appeared eager to begin in his new capacity. "The system is one to be admired and I'm proud to have been elected a part of its staff," he said.

The new principal instructed in social studies at Dexter during the 1969-70 and 1970-71 school years.

McCane, his wife Janice and sons Douglas, 8, and Gregory, 6, now live in Dexter. Mrs. McCane also formerly taught in Dexter Southwest Elementary School for four years.

He received his schooling at Ouachita Baptist University in Arkadelphia, Ark., where he obtained a bachelor's degree. He received further instruction at Henderson State Teachers College, also at Arkadelphia, where he earned a master's degree. He has since had further instruction at Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau.

Pellegrino accpeted the award for his brother and his wife, Frank and Ida Pellegrino of St. Louis, in a dedication ceremony Sunday afternoon of a new baseball addition to the George Gilleys Jr. Memorial Park. Frank Pellegrino, chairman of International Hat Co., was instrumental in the formation of the park, having donated $10,000 in 1962 for the purchase of land for the park and another $1,000 for additional improvements. The new baseball complex has a lighting system, restrooms, bleachers, a storage shed, dugouts and two tennis courts. A concession stand is near completion. (Daily Standard photo)

Honorable Mayor and City Council
City of Sikeston
Sikeston, Missouri

Gentlemen:

We have examined the Statement of Assets and Liabilities of the General Fund of the City of Sikeston as of April 30, 1974, and the related Statement of Revenues and Expenditures for the year then ended. In connection therewith, we have reviewed the system of internal control and the accounting procedures of the city and, without making a detailed audit of the transactions, we have examined or tested accounting records of the city and other supporting evidence by methods and to the extent we deemed appropriate. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements present fairly the financial position of the City of Sikeston, at April 30, 1974, and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Respectfully submitted,
JAMES H. BUCHER
Certified Public Accountant

What's the law?

The case of the talkative partner

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Moe went on a business trip with his two partners and, after [illegible] that were tough, all he could think of was a bed that was soft. He was so tired, in fact, the moment his head hit the pillow he began talking in his sleep. And, what he had to say really got his two partners, who were sitting nearby, in a tizzy.

Specifically, Moe confessed to being the culprit who had been stealing large sums of money from the partnership over a two-year period.

Falling all over themselves to call the police, Moe's partners had Moe arrested on charges of larceny.

"He's a real chiseler," the complained in court. "He carved out a fortune with our money. And the two of heard it right from the horse's mouth."

"You can't believe what I said in my sleep," was Moe's defense. "In addition to having a big mouth, my subconscious is a terrible liar."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict talkative Moe off larceny?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a man is not conscious of what he says when he talks in his sleep. Words spoken by him in that condition, noted the judge, constitute no evidence of guilt.

(Based upon an 1861 California Supreme Court Decision)

Prayer for today

from the Upper Room

"I sought the Lord, and he heard me, and delivered me from all my fears." (Psalm 34:4)

PRAYER: O God of mercy, we come to Thee, praying that all people may have freedom from fear -- the freedom Christ gives. Help us all to fix our thoughts and affections upon Thee and not be afraid. In His name. Amen.

9 persons injured in area accidents

Seven persons were injured in two area traffic accidents Monday, and two other persons received injuries in a Sunday accident not reported until today by the highway patrol.

An accident at 12:50 p.m. Monday on an unmarked asphalt road four miles east of the Grant City community resulted in five injuries.

The accident happened when an eastbound car driven by Betsy Hampton, 38, of Bloomfield attempted to make a left turn and was struck by a westbound car driven by Jim Harris, 47, of Benton Route One.

Harris and a passenger, Hattie Grant, 45, of Sikeston, suffered minor injuries. Mrs. Hampton and a passenger, Dorothy Hampton, 12, also received minor injuries. Another passenger, Jimmy Hampton, 14, received serious injuries. All five were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Charlie Thomas Dobbs, 53, of Vanduser was injured at 2:15 p.m. Monday at the intersection of Routes W and CC three miles west of Oran when his car, traveling north on Route CC, skidded through a stop sign into the path of an eastbound pickup truck driven by Lee Burton, 45, of Oran.

Dobbs and his wife Mary, 47, suffered minor injuries and were taken to Chaffee General Hospital.

A Jackson teen-ager was serious injured at 6:30 p.m. Sunday on Benton Hill Road three miles south of Jackson when she lost control of her car when it hit loose gravel, ran off the road and overturned.

Julie Marie Clifton, 16, was taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau, along with a passenger, Sherry Crites, 16, of Cape Girardeau Route One, who received minor injuries.

Prairie man arrested for weekend break-in

CHARLESTON — Larry Dale Houston, 23, of East Prairie was charged Monday with a felony of breaking, entering and stealing, according to Deputy Sheriff Mike Baughman.

The charge against Houston, who was arrested Sunday by Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie, was filed in connection with a break- in at a house owned by Wendell Choate and located near the Choate Farms office in Dorena. The break- in occurred either Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

Items taken from the home included a microwave oven, a 12 gauge shotgun, a .22 caliber rifle with scope and sling, a 30 automatic rifle with scope and sling, an Am-FM stereo component system with three speakers, a pony saddle and a nickel-plated revolver.

Houston, who is free on $5,000 bond, will appear Thursday in Magistrate Court.

Court okays clean-out

BENTON — Dan Frissell, soil conservationist, and Ken Morgan, area engineer for the Soil Conservation Service, appeared before the Scott County Court Monday and announced that they are in the process of planning a clean- out project for a drainage ditch and two creeks in Scott County.

The $250,000 project, which will be submitted to the court Thursday, will be for cleaning out Hayden Ditch, located two miles west of Oran; Caney Creek, south of New Hamburg; and Ramsey Creek, located between Kelso and Scott City.

Presiding Judge Les Lankford said the County Court will sponsor the project.

The court also announced that it had named a temporary county port authority advisory committee to help determine the feasibility and method of obtaining a river port for Southeast Missouri.

Named to the committee were Ollie Amick of Illmo, Mike Pfefferkorn of Chaffee, Denny Wheeler of Scott City, Jimmy Law, Jimmy Brown and Frank Ferrell of Sikeston and C. B. Taylor of Morley.

A permanent committee will be named Aug. 3.

The court agreed to blacktop the road that goes through the Vester Phillips subdivision outside the city limits of Morley.

The landowners agreed to pay for the blacktopping.

He said electrical demand Friday was the highest peak of the year.

Area - wide demand for electricity has doubled since May, according to D. H. Zaricor, manager of the Scott - New Madrid - Mississippi Rural Electric Cooperative. Zaricor said the REA has not experienced any shortages, except when a few homes installed air conditioning without notifying the office first.

The city water supply may be most affected by the dry weather. Water demands have increased by 75 per cent since the first of July, according to Richard Lucy, superintendent of Sikeston's water and sewage plants. During the weekend heat wave, demand soared to as much as four million gallons per day, while the plant capacity is designed for about 2,900,000 gallons per day. Lucy said July's average demand has reached about 3,140,000 gallons per day.

"We are possibly getting a lesser quality water, but it is still above state requirements," Lucy said.

Residents will be asked to conserve water, Lucy and Dick Inman, director of municipal utilities, announced today.

With no rain forecast until Thursday, it may become even more difficult for people to keep their cool.

$60; to Memphis, Tenn., $130; to St. Louis, $135; to Mount Vernon, $227.50; and to Columbia, $235.

An additional $5 will be charged should the patient require oxygen. A similar plan will be worked out for each of the four districts.

The committee has not made a decision yet about fees to be charged a patient picked up outside Stoddard County. Since the state requires services to develop mutual aid and support agreements with surrounding services, it will sometimes be necessary to provide service in overlapping areas outside the county.

Chairman Smarr told the board that after further study, he now thinks it would be advantageous to the district to base its operations out of Dexter Memorial Hospital as originally planned. Even though the Stoddard County sheriff's department offers many good possibilities, he said he believes the hospital plan is the best one for the district to follow.

The telephone system for the service will consist of a toll free enterprise number for residents of Advance, Bernie and Puxico. Residents of Dexter, Bloomfield and Essex will call a designated number with the 624 exchange.

There will be two numbers to call, one for emergency service and one for business transactions. Should the emergency number be busy, the system will automatically switch to the business number, providing two emergency lines at all times. The cost of the system to the district will be $48.50 per month.

Coats told the board he has five firm commitments from volunteers who are willing to take the 81- hour training course. He said he will be able to secure others as soon as he has the information as to which night the class meets, where it will meet and whether the district will pay the fees and expenses prior to enrollment instead of at the end of the course.

Smarr assured Coats that class schedule information will be available at the Aug. 12 meeting. The board then decided to pay necessary fees and expenes to volunteers prior to beginning the course, if desired.

Cummins told the board "We are asking for volunteers. We must be prepared to lose some (due to dropouts). If we must pay the fees and expenses prior to enrollment. It's a chance we will have to take."

The board voted to check on an available Bloomfield location to serve as the district headquarters. The space will be used as an office and meeting place.
